Hitler Sees Bow at Vienna; Russian War Aid to Turks

With a solemn German pledge that no Axis troops would march through her territory, Yugoslavia signed the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance in Vienna today in ceremonies attended by Adolf Hitler.

Well-informed Vienna sources declared Germany specifically exempted Yugoslavia from giving military aid to the Axis and guaranteed the Balkan kingdom's territorial integrity.

Apparently timing her moves to coincide with the approaching show-down, Soviet Russia pledged benevolent neutrality toward Turkey, if the Turks fight in event of an attack, and was reported to have cut off oil shipments to Germany and reinforced her own western frontier garrisons.

Bulgarian reports said Greek and German forces already had clashed in minor frontier skirmishes.

Slavs Ignore Greek Threat

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

VIENNA, March 25 (AP)—Yugoslavia joined the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis as a fifth junior partner today, but gained pledges that no Axis troops would cross her frontiers.

Berlin officialdom promptly called the act an "answer to Churchill and Roosevelt."

In the great yellow hall of Belvedere Palace, Yugoslavia's premier and foreign minister, Dragisa Cvetkovic and Aleksander Cincar-Markovic, signed a document identical except for the nation's name with that which Rumania signed—a pledge of collaboration against any new anti-Axis belligerent in the European or Asiatic wars.

But where Rumania and, more recently Bulgaria, were promptly turned into vast encampments for German armies, Yugoslavia received the pledges of the three senior partners that her sovereignty and territorial integrity would be respected for "all time."

IGNORES GREEK WARNING

However, an unofficial version of Yugoslavia's commitments was that she had agreed to permit transport of war material and hos-

Reds Pledge Aid to Turks

ANKARA, Turkey, March 25 (AP)—Soviet Russia clarified her attitude toward swiftly-moving events in the Balkans today by promising to remain neutral, if Turkey, Britain's nonbelligerent ally, were attacked and forced to enter the war in self-defense.

Announcement of the pledge, which observers believed would stiffen Turkish resistance to German overtures, coincided with reports that Russia had cut off oil shipments to the Reich and was concentrating additional army and naval forces in the Black sea area.

High diplomatic circles saw in the Russian promise an implication that the Soviet is prepared to give Turkey full material support to defend the Dardanelles, vital gateway between the Mediterranean and Black sea, against any possible German encroachment.

(Reports from Belgrade said Russian military supplies already were flowing into Turkey across the Caucasus frontier.)

These circles attached particular significance to the fact that Russia's assurances to Turkey coin-

19 MISSING, 22 SAVED IN TANKER BLAST AND FIRE OFF N. C. CAPE

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Nineteen seamen were reported missing today after an explosion and fire struck the 9316-ton oil tanker Cities Service Denver 80 miles south of Cape Lookout, N. C.

Capt. Dameron Meekins of the U. S. Coast Guard at Beaufort inlet reported that 17 survivors had reached Morehead City, N. C., aboard the Pan-New York and five others had been picked up by the W. W. Bruce, but that 19 were still missing.

Two of the survivors were badly burned. They were listed as Wenfield Campbell, Portland, Me., and Oscar Degerstedt, Two Harbors, Minn. They were taken to the Morehead City Hospital.

The W. W. Bruce, a tanker, was reported to have taken the Denver intwo, in spite of heavy seas, and was heading for Beaufort, N. C. The tanker was still a "flaming mass."

Chief Mate G. Desimore of the stricken ship was quoted as saying he did not know what caused the explosion, or just what happened because the flames spread so rapidly.

The New York Coast Guard had picked up another radio report which indicated a Coast Guard boat "had rescued five more members" of the stricken vessel's crew, but details were lacking. The Cities Service home office here still listed 19 as missing.

The missing men were believed to have been in the forward part of the Cities Service Denver when the explosion occurred at 11 p. m. last night, the Pan-New York said.

Five Coast Guard craft were dispatched to the scene, about 100 miles offshore. The W. W. Bruce was standing by the stricken 465-foot vessel.

The company listed these 19 men

Graziani Quits as Italy's Chief in Libya

MARSHAL GRAZIANI

ROME, March 25 (AP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani today resigned command of Italy's North African troops and the positions of army chief of staff and governor of Libya. An official announcement said Gen. Italo Gariboldi, chief of Graziani's staff in Libya, had been promoted to governor with command of troops in Libya.

Gen. Mario Roatta, army undersecretary of staff, was promoted to chief of staff. Graziani, army chief of staff since October, 1939, was named commander of the army in Libya July 1, 1940, succeeding Marshal Italo Balbo, who was killed when his plane was shot down over Tobruk.

Graziani organized the Italian advance into Egypt which was turned into a retreat whe nthe British recaptured Sidi Barrani last December. He retained command throughout the British counter-offensive in which the Italians were driven from eastern Libya.

The communique announcing Graziani's resignation said:

"At his own request, Marshal Graziani ceases to hold the posts of army chief of staff, governor of Libya and commander in chief of the Italian forces in North Africa.

"The last post was assumed by Gen. Designate of the Army Italo Gariboldi. The post of army chief of staff is assumed by Assistant Chief of Staff Army Corps Gen. Mario Roatta.

"Division Gen. Francesco Rossi becomes assistant army chief of staff."

Rumors that Graziani would resigns began circulating about the time Marshal Pietro Badoglio retired as chief of the general staff Dec. 6. They became more persistent after the North African disaster. Recently Graziani was reported to be suffering from a throat ailment which might require an operation.

Gariboldi commanded the "Grand Unit" of the Italian forces in East Africa before he became chief of Graziani's staff in Libya.

Roatta had been underchief of staff since he replaced Gen. Ubaldo Soddu when the latter was named undersecretary of state for war, a post in which Soddu later was supplanted by Gen. Alfredo Guzzoni.

Stepfather Is Jailed For Beating Baby Girl

Out of his 2-year-old stepdaughter's highchair he improvised an electric chair, and then proceeded to shock the baby, Francis Wenzler, 27, admitted today in South Boston court, where he was jailed for six months for assault and battery on the child.

"I did it for fun and not for torture," the stepfather of little Jean F. White said in court.

But it wasn't for the shocking that he received the sentence. It was for a terrific beating he allegedly administered to Jean less than two weeks ago, one that sent her to City Hospital with blackened eyes and a chubby body covered with bruises. She is still there. Wenzler, whose home is in Swallow st., South Boston, pleaded not guilty to the charge and appealed the House of Correction sentence.

When he was held, however, in $1000 bail for superior court hearing he withdrew his appeal and accepted the sentence.

Wenzler was taken into court after a period of observation at Boston Psychopathic Hospital, the hospital reporting him sane.

Special Officers Jeremiah Donahue and J. L. Sexton of South Boston station testified they were sent to an address in East Sixth st., home of little Jean's grandmother, and with them went Miss Ruth Roland, an agent of the M. S. P. C. C.

They found, the officers testified, that the child had blackened eyes and her body was badly bruised.

It was revealed in the testimony that after she is released from the hospital she will be taken to a country home for at least a year.

MADE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Police said Wenzler, when arrested, claimed the baby's injuries had been suffered when she fell out of her high chair.

Reports produced from the Psychopathic Hospital, however, had Wenzler admitting there that he had given the baby a spanking and struck her with such force as to knock her against a wall.

Mrs. Margaret Fitzimmons of East Sixth st., a sister of Mrs. Wenzler, testified:

"He admitted to me he gave the child 'a damn good beating.'"

The baby's mother told the court that last summer Wenzler placed little Jean in her high chair, wired the chair to some dry cell electric batteries and then applied shocks to the baby until the witness was successful in pulling Jean out of the chair.

Defy Housing Edict, Await 'God's Word'

An elderly brother and sister, Thomas J. Mulvey, 73, and Miss Annie Mulvey, 67, bristled defiance toward Federal authorities today—vowing they will surrender their Minton st., Jamaica Plain, homestead only on a "message from God."

Fixing a new pane of glass in a window broken by a brick hurled by someone during the night, Mulvey declared:

"I've paid my taxes, so they can't put us out. I've also paid the electric light bill, so they can't shut that off. When am I going to move out? You'll have to ask the assistant sheriff about that."

The couple's 120-year-old home, the house in which they were born, is the lone building now standing in a proposed housing project and the Mulvey's aren't going to get out until "God tells us to."

"It is the devil's work," said Mulvey solemnly, as he gazed at the ruins of what had once been the homes of neighbors, "but I will move only when God tells me to." He said he and his sister were praying that they will not have to move.

A retired painter and decorator, Mulvey displays a fanatical love for his home, and to date has refused to heed the notice sent him by the Housing Authority to seek other quarters.

He said that Deputy Sheriff John J. Casey had visited him last Friday, and that earlier a young man had come to appraise the house, which is owned by Mulvey and assessed at $1700.

Located almost in the center of the proposed housing project, the house is surrounded by piles of debris, and workmen keep dozens of small fires burning to clean up the wreckage from demolished houses.

GIRL SOBS OVER DEATH GUN QUIZ

SALEM, March 25—Wanda Adamczyk, 21-year-old Dracut girl, broke down on the witness stand in Superior Court today when asked to re-enact a gun scuffle which cost the life of James W. Poole, Lawrence private detective, in his office three years ago.

As the girl burst into tears when pressed by Atty. Charles D. Mahoney to demonstrate how she reached for the gun, Judge Edward T. Broadhurst intervened and sharply rebuked the lawyer for his insistence that she show how she shot Poole.

"I'm not going to permit you to make this girl handle that gun here," Judge Broadhurst exclaimed heatedly.

As the judge remonstrated with the lawyer, the girl stepped from the witness stand and faced the wall of the courtroom, her body shaking with sobs. Seeing her condition, the judge continued:

"It is very unlikely, even if she could compose herself, that she would be able to re-enact that scene."

Atty. Mahoney said he had every consideration for the girl's feelings, but argued that it was vital to the case that her position and that of Poole as she reached for the gun be shown in court.

"I don't care whether you consider it vital or not, you are not going to make her do it in this court," the judge reiterated.

After being asked by the judge to rest and compose herself, Miss Adamczyk was able to resume her testimony.

WANDA ADAMCZYK

Having been acquitted of the shooting, Miss Adamczyk is a witness in a suit brought by Poole's widow and mother to collect double indemnity on his life insurance policies.

In her first appearance on the stand, Miss Adamczyk had told of meeting Poole and accompanying him to his office in Essex st.

"When I went to leave for home and put on my scarf, he pulled the scarf from my neck and told me to start undressing or he'd shoot me," she testified.

"It was then I noticed a gun in a holster on his desk. I went for it. We picked it up at the same time. I got it away from him and ran to a window to throw it out."

"He turned the lights off when I got up for my coat, and he stood between me and the door," she said.

Atty. Mahoney asked her if she had intended to shoot Poole.

"I did not!" she declared. "It was in self-defense."

"Then you did intend to shoot him?" the attorney asked.

"No, I did not," she replied emphatically.

The death pistol had been placed on a table in the courtroom by Atty. Mahoney, who again asked her to re-enact the scene. She refused, and again Judge Broadhurst remonstrated:

"I'm not going to spend all day here on experiments," he said, and then ordered Mahoney to let the girl tell her own story.

VOLUNTEERS SHUN AIR CADET JOBS; YD TO GET HOT WEATHER UNIFORMS

Disclosure that volunteers in this air-minded age are skipping the Army's air cadet corps and announcement that the Yankee Division soon will slip into snappy summer uniforms highlighted action on the Bay State military front today.

Other developments included announcement that after 2500 more Massachusetts men are selected for the Army between now and June there will be no more calls until December; also an appeal from Gov. Saltonstall to motorists to give military convoys the right of way on the highways.

Failure of the flying cadet boards in the district to fill monthly quotas is giving him some concern, Brig. Gen. James A. Woodruff said.

According to the First Corps Area commander, Col. Vernon Burge and his staff are working night and day so this area might approximate its quota of 140 men monthly.

"But young men are not volunteering as was anticipated," Gen. Woodruff said. "I understand other areas are experiencing difficulty in attaining their quotas.

"Personaly, I can't understand the lack of interest. The air corps offers a young man more than any other branch of service."

PAY IS $75 A MONTH

Young men drafted into military service have the opportunity to enlist in the air branch, Gen. Woodruff stated. During training, the pay is $75 monthly as against $21 for a private in other units of the army.

"Unless the war department decides to expand its strength beyond the 1,400,000 now required by law, there will be no further summons for selectees until December, when the first group completes the required one year of training," Gen. Woodruff stated.

By June, the Bay State will have its quota of 20,556 young men in military service.

In his appeal to motorists, Gov. Saltonstall stated that there soon would be convoys of as many as 100 military trucks carrying raw materials to factories engaged in defense production.

HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

"Such convoys," he said, "have the right of way, and the driver of a private car has no right to be involved in an accident that blocks such a highway, nor can he interfere with the convoy's progress in weaving in and out of the well-space' Army trucks.

"It is necessary that our highways be kept open for this defense movement."

The governor added that the problem will be discussed Monday at the Massachusetts Safety Conference here.

For some time, it seems, the veterans of the Yankee Division at Camp Edwards have looked with a feeling akin to envy on the snappier uniforms issued to newly inducted rookies of the division.

But soon they themselves will be able to strut in a snappy uniform, for new summer clothing is to be issued by the War Department.

It will be of cotton, and each YD soldier will get four pairs of trousers, four shirts, three work suits, a field hat and six pairs of sox and underwear.

HANDY IN NEW POST

Anson B. Handy, superintendent of schools in Plymouth, today took over duties as president of Hyannis State Teachers' College on appointment of Education Commr. Walter F. Downey. He fills the vacancy caused by the recent death of Herbert H. Howes.

Famed Dietician to Give Figure Facts In American Series

A national authority on problems of everyday diet, Ida Jean Kain (here), famous feminine columnist and dietician, will write a daily column in this newspaper on "Your Figure, Madame," beginning next Monday. Her articles will tell you how to acquire a new spring figure.

Oh girls, it won't be long now before you can fit your figures to the seasonal requirements of spring, summer, autumn or winter.

You don't believe it? Well, just wait until you have all the figure facts brought to your attention by Ida Jean Kain, whose daily column, "Your Figure, Madame," begins in the Boston American next Monday, March 31.

This famous feminine columnist and renowned dietitian, is a national authority on problems of everyday diet, and she has the gift of presenting the fundamental principles of diet and health in such an interesting and convincing way that the average person can grasp them without difficulty.

You'd like to diet, perhaps, but you love your three square meals a day. But what to do about it? That's where Miss Kain comes in to point the way, no matter what sort of a figure you possess or would like to develop.

Miss Kain recognizes and appreciates the general desire for sound scientific food knowledge, that may be applied to those three daily square meals, without the dangers that may lurk in sensational and unsound diets.

Both the modern Miss and the modern Madame have more than ever a genuine concern and desire for full knowledge of the relative values and factors of nutrition which produce physical fitness and normal weight.

Therein lies the great secret, girls! Miss Kain has a thorough knowledge, through long study and expepience, of the care of the physical structure of the body, nurtured by rational gymnastics.

But on top of all this, she knows not only what the body requires in the way of nutrition, but also how that body should be cared for in the way of exercise.

She is qualified as an expert by her degree of Bachelor of Science of Battle Creek College, and by practical training as medical dietitian at the Battle Creek Sanatorium. She did further research at the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University.

That explains why Miss Kain is fully equipped to deal with the problems of milady's figure—your figure. And that also explains why she is amply qualified to write under the heading, "Your Figure, Madame," for YOUR particular benefit.

So, watch for the first article of her new series, "A New Figure For Spring," beginning in next Monday's Boston American.

Intriguing? You'll say so after the first reading. Spring is definitely here. A new spring figure for you is just around the corner.

Fashion Expert Boston Speaker

Dear to Milady's heart at this time of year are "Fashions for Spring and Summer" and this is the very title of the address of Mrs. Carmel Snow, editor-in-chief of Harper's Bazaar, as speaker Friday before the Fashion Group of Boston at Hotel Vendome.

Mrs. Snow, making her first Boston address in several years, will show how the trends of fashion change sharply every five years.

The Fashion Group of Boston was founded here three years ago as an offshoot of the Fashion Group of New York. Among leaders who will greet Mrs. Carmel here are Miss Lillian Beckett, stylist at R. H. White's; Miss Muriel Cox, program chairman of the Fashion Group, and Miss Edesse Dahlgren, personnel director at Elizabeth Arden's.

U.S. Has Minted Heap o' Nickels

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP) —Minting of nickels has passed the 2,000,000,000 mark.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, made this announcement in connection with the celebration by numismatists of the 75th anniversary of the five-cent piece. The present Jefferson nickel, of which 453 314,458 have been struck off already, is the fourth nickel.

When Congress authorized the coin in 1866, the first nickel bore a shield design. Then came the liberty nickel, and then the buffalo nickel. The Jefferson nickel started coming out of the mints Oct. 1, 1938.

COURT FLAYS MOTHER, GIVES SON TO FATHER

Declaring that Mrs. Marie Sobelman, attractive young wife of David Sobelman of Brighton, had entirely disregarded her marriage duties and was unfit to take care of their 5-year-old son, Judge John V. Mahoney in Suffolk Probate Court today denied her petition for divorce and awarded a decree nisi to Sobelman with custody of the son.

"It's a nasty, vicious case," Judge Mahoney remarked after testimony in the cross-petitions. Both husband and wife had asked divorce and custody.

The judge flatly refused the request of the wife's attorney to have the boy questioned in court.

VISIT TO MAN'S APARTMENT

Testimony in both cases ended after Mrs. Sobelman and her father, Arthur Champagne of River st., Cambridge, had been on the stand.

She had again testified to purported acts of cruelty by her husband, but said she did not consider it improper she should have visited the apartment of another man at 4 a. m.

Charles W. French, Jr., Boston pianist, previously testified she had visited his apartment in the early morning under the influence of drink.

The father further testified that shortly after the wedding of his daughter and Sobelman they had gone to live with him and Sobelman had beaten her during a quarrel.

COURT'S JUDGMENT

"This court wants to assist rather than to injure people, but after listening to the testimony in these petitions, it appears to me that this woman has entirely disregarded her marriage vows and duties," Judge Mahoney said in disposing of the case.

"I find that she was cruel and abusive. I find she has neglected her child. I find that her husband is a proper person and that the Hillside School is a proper place.

"I am granting a decree nisi to the husband and am dismissing her petition. I am granting custody of the child to the husband, and the boy is to go to the Hillside School. The mother may see the boy at reasonable times."

Boys Admit Killing Pal With Hatchet

MUSKEGON, Mich., March 25 (AP)—Glenn Arthur Brough, Jr., 14, and his 11-year-old brother, Benny, of Fruitport township, faced further questioning today by Sheriff Peter Cardinal in connection with the slaying of 13-year-old Jack Kelly, whose mutilated body was found Sunday half a mile from their farm home.

The two boys were returned here by Deputy Sheriff John Burcon, after they were picked up by police at Lansing yesterday. Both the deputy and Police Capt. John J. Early of Lansing said the elder boy admitted the killing Saturday morning.

"We got into a fight at my house and Jack threatened to go home and get his 22 rifle, so I grabbed a hatchet and beat him to death," the deputy quoted Glenn as saying. "The two of us then dragged his body to the swamp and covered it with saplings and leaves."

Sheriff Cardinal said he was not satisfied with the boy's story.

"The hatchet, covered with blood and hair, was found only 300 feet from the body and we have proof that the slaying took place along the highway," he said. "I am satisfied we will get the true story from the boys today."

Young Benny was absolved of any part in the slaying by his elder brother, officers said.

Vet Hospital For W. Roxbury

Selection of a West Roxbury site, owned by the city of Boston, on the Boston-Providence highway as a location for a 300 bed general medical hospital was announced today by the War Veterans Administration at Washington.

An announcement by Brig.-Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, said President Roosevelt had approved a recommendation by the federal board of hospitalization that the hospital be located here.

The announcement did not say how much money would be spent on construction of the hospital. Others of that size erected by the veterans administration have cost between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, however.

World to Hear Pope on Peace

LONDON, March 25 (INS)—Pope Pius will broadcast a peace message to the world Easter Sunday, the London Daily Sketch reported today.

Recent reports from Rome said that Pope Pius would eliminate his usual Easter homily to the world this year and would not say public mass in St. Peter's Church. International News Service dispatches from London yesterday and last week, however, told of determined efforts by Pope Pius and King Victor Emmanuel to bring about at least a separate peace between Italy and England.—Editor's note.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 25 (AP)—The car is to cost Canada $885,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31.

B. U. SHELL CRASHES, 9 IN CREW DUCKED

Two members of Boston University's varsity crew were rescued from the Charles River today, while the seven other members swam to shore, after their racing shell had crashed into a mooring near Magazine Beach.

The bow of the craft was torn away by the impact, hurling all the occupants into the icy water. The accident occurred as the shell was returning to the boathouse off Cottage Farm bridge after a practice row.

The two rescued oarsmen, who were unable to swim and clung to the wreckage until rescued by Irving Appleby, manager of Magazine beach, were: Richard Germain, 21, stroke, and William Kosina, 20, coxswain.

The other seven who swam to the Boston shore were: Capt. Al LeRose, 21; Cass Ciba, 21; bowman; Benjamin Golini, 21; Bud Bornhofft, 21; Hugh Bebb, 21; Jay McCrae, 18, and David Mears, 19.

Germain and Kosina were taken to the Stone House at Magazine Beach and provided with blankets and hot coffee by park department employes. Later they were transferred to their own boathouse.

Manager Appleby had witnessed the crash of the racing shell and put out to the scene in a small boat. There he found Germain and Kosina clinging to the wreckage.

Meantime, Cambridge police and Metropolitan police hurried to Magazine Beach in cruiser cars and patrol wagons, but their services were not required.

At the Boston University boathouse later, it was reported that none of the members of the varsity crew were any the worse for the adventure.

Halliburton Sailor's Riches Prize in Suit

The name of Richard Halliburton, author and adventurer who vanished on a Chinese junk in the Pacific in 1937, was raised in Dedham Probate Court today, where a father and son seek to establish the death of one of his crewmen.

Frederick Chase of Dedham, father of Robert H. Chase, 24-year-old Dartmouth student who disappeared with Halliburton, and Chase's son Hugh, in order to collect his share of the $700,000 estate of his grandmother, Edith Gallagher Chase, are attempting to prove that Robert was drowned.

Prize witness today was weather-beaten Capt. Robert Suermondt, veteran Dutch mariner, who has spent most of the 60-odd years of his life as the master of sailing vessels in the Pacific.

NONE COULD BE ALIVE

"It is my opinion that a junk such as Halliburton had could not have survived the storm it me. All they could have done was to heave to, drop a sea anchor and pray," the veteran skipper testified.

Capt. Suermondt asserted that in his opinion, there was "no reasonable possibility" that any of the party of 15 could have floated on wreckage to some island in the Pacific and still be alive.

A deposition by John R. Potter of Southwest Harbor, Me., disclosed he and young Chase had each put $6500 into the Halliburton enterprise to sail the junk from Hongkong to Treasure Island, San Francisco, for exhibit at the World's Fair.

THEIR BOAT VANISHED

The deposition recounted how, three days out at sea in March, 1937, the party ran into heavy weather. A boom broke loose, seriously injuring Potter, and Halliburton, after a conference with the crew, decided to return Potter to Hongkong.

A few days later the junk put to sea again and has never been seen or heard from since.

Young Chase was named a one-quarter legatee in the estate of his grandmoaher, and his father and brother, as executors, are asking that trustees convert his portion, amounting to about $150,000, into cash and turn it over to them.

Judge James F. Reynolds continued the case to a later date to be decided on by agreement.

Morton Birge Rites Held in Harwichport

Funeral services for Morton B. Birge, retired editorial writer for the Boston Daily Record and a veteran newspaperman, were to be held at 3 p. m. today at the Doane and Beal funeral home, Harwichport. Interment will be at Harwichport.

Widely known through his connection with Boston and New York papers over a long period, he died at his Chatham rd., South Harwich, home Sunday. He would have been 67 next Monday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Josephine Birge, and an aunt, Mrs. Grace Mitchell of Harwichport.

State Control Seen In Cambridge Tangle

Sponsors of a legislative plan to clear up the Cambridge administrative muddle were confident today that it would be put through the Legislature by tomorrow and a "steering committee" appointed to oversee Cambridge problems.

The muddle is born of the conviction of Mayor John W. Lyons and Paul Mannos, Brookline contractor, on bribery charges and the Mayor's agreement to refrain from functioning as chief executive until his appeal is passed on by the Supreme Court.

ADVISORY BOARD

In the House, two Cambridge city councilors, Haven Parker and Henry D. Winslow, who are also State Representatives, proposed the formation of a legislative committee as an advisory board to speed up measures necessary to clear up the municipal tangle.

Under the councilors' plan a committee of two Senators and five Representatives would be named on the committee, all of them to be Cambridge legislators.

The city is represented by four Democrats and three Republicans in the House and two Republicans in the Senate.

Under its form as an order, the measure does not have to go through the rules comittee, nor does it, if passed by House and Senate, have to be signed by the Governor. Passage by the House sends it immediately to the Senate where, if it also is passed, it becomes operative automatically.

The sponsors expected that their measure would be approved by the House today and then would go to the Senate and be passed at once.

MAREN IN JAIL

Meanwhile Thomas Maren, Boston night club operator, and Costa (Polly) Polisakai, Bedford restaurateur, began their first full day in East Cambridge Jail, to where they were sentenced yesterday—Maren to six months and Polly to three—for contempt of court in allegedly tampering with a Lyons-Mannos case juror.

Hardly had they been sentenced for allegedly sounding out Juror No. 1. Howard F. Davis of Bedford, when there came a report that another juror had been assaulted since the guilty verdicts were rendered.

This was followed by a report that all jurors would be given protection, but there was no official verification of this report.

Boy, 17, Admits 2 Burglaries in Jamaica Plain

A 17-year-old Jamaica Plain High School boy twice turned burglar in the home of a neighbor, he admitted today in the police lineup, but the second time he forgot to duck quick enough and was recognized.

The tall, 190-pound student admitted he first entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Karp in Walnut ave., Jamaica Plain, around the corner from his own home, on the night of March 4.

Climbing veranda posts to the second floor, he went to the third floor by a ladder, entered the Karp flat through the bathroom window, he said, and stole $8. He denied taking jewelry.

Again yesterday, at 4 a. m., he followed the same route at the apartment house, he said, but Mrs. Mary Karp awoke and screamed. He fled precipitately and crept back into his own home.

What he did not know then was that Mrs. Karp had caught a glimpse of his face and recognized him.

He knew, however, when police arrived shortly afterward.

Boys Save Dad As Home Burns

CARLISLE, March 25—Soundly sleeping, James DeMos, former professional wrestler, was saved from a possible fiery death early today by his two young sons, aged six and two, whose cries awoke him just before fire destroyed their home on Acton st.

DeMos ran a quarter of a mile to turn in an alarm, but the fire department, speeding two miles from its station in Concord, arrived too late.

Fire started from an undetermined cause in the garage, which was consumed in the blaze, together with an automobile. Loss was estimated at $4000.

DeMos' housekeeper was also warned by the children in time to escape.

SHOWDOWN SIGNALS SET IN BALKANS

BELGRADE, March 25 (AP)—Observers here saw these danger signals for a quick showdown in the Balkans:

1—Soviet Russia pledged benevolent neutrality to Turkey in the event that Turkey is "obliged to enter the war for the defense of her territory." Turkey is Britain's non-belligerent ally and close friend of Greece.

2—Bulgarian reports said Greek and German troops had already clashed in frontier skirmishes.

3—Soviet war materials were reported flowing into Turkey, and reliable sources said Russia had halted shipments of vital oil supplies to Germany.

4—Russian army and naval forces, facing German forces in southeast Europe, were reported being strengthened.

Slavs Jibe Hitler as Chiefs Bow

By DESIDER GELEJI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, March 25—Postcards bearing insulting caricatures of Hitler and Mussolini were distributed throughout Belgrade today as the Yugoslavian government plunged the nation into the Axis-Japanese alliance.

News the tripartite pact had been signed in Vienna by Premier Dragisha Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Alexander Cincar-Markovic coincided with growing unrest in Yugoslavia.

The cards and leaflets opposing the pact and denouncing the Axis dictators contained many grammatical errors, indicating many of the cards had been prepared by non-Yugoslavians.

CLASH WITH NAZIS?

Distribution of the leaflets accompanied unconfirmed reports of clashes between Yugoslavian and German troops along the Bulgarian frontier. These reports increased tension in Belgrade.

The leaflets read:

"Yugoslavians in the past have been a heroic, fighting people who have never surrendered to an enemy. But now they are yielding to Germany.

"This is only the first step.

"Germany certainly will demand passage of her troops through Yugoslavian territory.

"The weak Yugoslavian government will be unable to refuse these demands and the independence of Yugoslavia will be endangered.

"National harmony and energy must be preserved for the dangerous days which are coming."

No details of the reported border clashes were received, beyond the statement they were supposed to have occurred yesterday.

BITTERLY OPPOSE PACT

Fears, openly expressed in certain quarters, that German troops may pour into Yugoslavia now that the pact has been signed, produced an explosive situation.

Many Yugoslavians—particularly Serbians—have expressed bitter opposition to the pact during the past few days.

Another cause for alarm was a formal British diplomatic note, warning of dire consequences for Yugoslavia as a result of today's scheduled developments.

SLAV, GERMAN TROOPS REPORTED IN CLASHES

pital equipment, as well as wounded, through her territory.

Greece (which may provide the battlefields for this equipment) already had warned Yugoslavia that this would be regarded as a "hostile act."

Hitler was in Vienna, presumably at the Belvedere Palace, when the pact was signed, but it was not known whether he witnessed the actual signing.

In Berlin, an authorized spokesman declared that British Prime Minister Churchill had threatened Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia before they joined the Axis and asserted:

"President Roosevelt had indirectly made a similar expression toward the Balkans and directly through the Yugoslav minister in Washington."

The reference to Mr. Roosevelt was based on a recent report in a Hungarian newspaper that the President had offered to support Yugoslavia if she resisted the Axis overtures.

German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, on behalf of the other adherents of the three-power pact, solemnly assured Prince Paul, Yugoslavia's chief regent, the territorial integrity of his country would be respected and no troops would march through it.

This unequivocal pledge, together with authoritative German comment that "we don't want Balkan divisions," gives credence to the following version which the Associated Press has received from a well-informed source:

First, Germany undertook to guarantee Yugoslavia's integrity and obligated Italy and Japan likewise to respect it;

ARMED AID PROMISED

Second, she promised that neither the frontiers nor territory of Yugoslavia would be violated;

Third, she specifically exempted Yugoslavia from giving any military aid to the three-power nations;

Fourth, she promised, after conclusion of the war, when she plans the 'new order in Europe,' to take into account Yugoslavia's wishes regarding the Aegean sea.

Yugoslavia, according to this version, undertook:

First, to permit the transport or war and hospital equipment as well as of wounded over her territory;

Second, to dovetail her economic system into that of the Axis;

Third, to end anti-Axis manifestations and influences in Yugoslavia.

As in the case of Hungary and Bulgaria, the ceremony occurred in Belvedere Palace in the presence of Von Ribbentrop, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Lieut.-Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Berlin.

RIBBENTROP'S NOTES

They signed for their respective countries while Yugoslav Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic signed for Yugoslavia.

The Axis governments addressed identical notes to Cvetkovic. The German note was read by Von Ribbentrop.

"In connection with today's action of Yugoslavia in signing the three power pact," it said, "the German government confirms its determination to respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Yugoslavia for all time."

This bore Von Ribbentrop's signature.

There was still another note to Yugoslavia signed by the foreign minister:

"With reference to the negotiations in connection with Yugoslavia's joining the three-power pact today, I have the honor, your excellency, in the name of the German administration, herewith to confirm an agreement between the Axis governments and the royal Yugoslav government that the governments of the Axis powers during this war will not permit the marching or transport of troops through Yugoslav territory."

Sea Losses Cut Sharply, British Say

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—A British admiralty announcement today showed a drop in Britain's sea losses for the second successive week, while she returns blow for blow in the battle of the Atlantic.

Twenty-three British and Allied merchantment totaling 71,773 tons were lost in the sea war in the week ended March 16, the admiralty said. Of the vessels, 17 were British totaling 60,670 tons and six were Allied, totaling 11,103 tons.

This compared with total losses were lost in the sea war in the week and 141,314 tons the week before that.

The British declared that in the same period Britain's own naval and air raiders were sinking almost three tons of Axis ships for every four tons Britain and her Allies lost.

Compared with the announced total of 410,000 tons lost to Allied and neutral shipping in the five weeks up to March 16, the British said Axis losses in that period were 300,000 tons.

British Capture Key African Pass

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—Authoritative sources reported today British capture of Marda Pass, strategic gateway on the road to Harar, west of the fallen Ethiopian town of Jijiga.

The pass is located about 10 miles out of Jijiga on the route to Harar, important Italian strong hold in east central Ethiopia.

British sources identified as Marda Pass one of the "vital features" mentioned taken in a recent Cairo communique detailing successes in the East African campaign.

The Italian high command today said "in the Jijiga sector the enemy is exerting strong pressure which is being held in check by our troops."—Editor's note.

U. S. Ties Up All Slav Cash Here

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt today froze all funds of Yugoslavia in the United States.

This was announced at the Treasury shortly after Yugoslavia signed the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis pact.

No explanation of the freezing was given, but it has been the policy of the Administration to tie up the funds of any country coming under the domination of the Axis powers.

The action prohibited use or removal of any Yugoslavian cash, securities or other movable assets in this country. Commerce Department experts estimated such Yugoslavian assets totaled $1,000,000.

Yugoslavia was the 13th nation whose funds have been frozen. The other nations have about $1,500,000,000 worth of assets here. They are Norway, Denmark, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxemburg, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Affected indirectly, especially if Yugoslavia adopts reprisal measures, are about $36,000,000 worth of American investments in Yugoslavia, mostly private American holdings of Yugoslavian government bonds.

800,000 NAZI TROOPS MASSED IN BALKANS

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—Germany has approximately 800,000 troops fully equipped for immediate battle in the Balkins, to enforce the German drive toward the southeast and guard the Soviet Russian frontier, a reliable foreign source declared today.

British quarters declined comment and refused to indicate whether the report checked with their intelligence reports.

Germany, the foreign source said, has 50,000 men in Italy and Africa, 600,000 in France, 300,000 in Denmark and from 750,000 to 1,000,000 in Germany, Poland, Norway and the low countries or in transit.

This disposition of troops, the source said, was viewed by informants on the continent as indicating Germany had decided a Balkan offensive would be easier than an immediate attempt to invade Britain.

Graziani Quits In Libya

rica and Albania have taken a heavy toll of high Fascist commanders—and most of them stepped out just as Marshal Graziani did, by resignation after repeated defeats.

The first to go was Gen. Visconti Prasca, replaced as chief of the Italian forces in Albania last Nov. 15 by Gen. Ubaldo Soddu. Last Dec. 6 Gen. Ugo Cavallero superseded Marchshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of the Italian general staff and Cavallero shortly afterward also was sent to Albania to take the command there from Soddu.

The resignations gave ill health as a cause.

Marshal Graziani, however, held his position as governor of Libya and commander of North African forces for months after his start of an invasion of Egypt backfired and he lost Eastern Libya to a British counterdrive.

Repeated rumors that he was to be replaced were denied in Rome, where the veteran North African campaigner sent Premier Mussolini his own account of why he couldn't stop the British.

His report last Dec. 22 blamed his reverses on lack of armored cars, tanks and other mechanized equipment and said the British got the jump on him by starting their cross-desert push just before the zero hour for a planned Italian drive on toward the Nile.

The marshal declared:

"I once more confirm to you categorically that everybody there has fulfilled his duty as far as possible."

British Intercept Nazi Freighter

LONDON, March 25 (AP) — The admiralty announced today the naval sloop Shoreham had intercepted the 8516-ton German merchant ship Oder as it tried to escape from Massaua, Red Sea port of Eritrea. No details were given by the admiralty communique, and it failed to specify whether the Oder was captured or simply turned back.

Arbitration Moves In Hub Labor Rows

Still at loggerheads, but ready to submit their differences to arbitration, labor and industry in three Greater Boston concerns engaged in national defense work remained locked in wage disputes today.

At the Walworth Manufacuring Co. plant, South Boston, where 700 workmen left their jobs Monday, picket lines were withdrawn as union and company representatives agreed to lay their problem before the State Board of Arbitration later today.

Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the board, said the picket lines were withdrawn by mutual agreement after the company, with $500,000 worth of defense orders, consented to suspend production until the dispute was settled.

Walworth employes seek hourly wage increases from 45 to 62½ cents and reinstatement of seven workmen allegedly dismissed for union activities.

Meanwhile, officials of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee (CIO) issued a call for a mass meeting of union workers at 7:30 tonight in Dahlgren hall, South Boston, to consider possible counter-proposals, or other developments in the Walworth strike.

Workmen, represented by Hugh Lyons, regional CIO director, and David Pokross, spokesman for J. Frank Dorney, Walworth manager, met for five hours with Gen. Cole yesterday before agreeing to end picket lines.

MEETING IN LYNN

In Lynn more than 3000 employes of General Electric held a mass meeting to protest the company's refusal to grant wage increases of 10 cents an hour.

Alfred Coulthard, business manager of CIO union, local 201, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said the employes felt entitled to the raise in view of "increased profits on the part of the company." He said they had not received a pay boost since 1937.

Declaring he thought the protest meeting would accomplish the same end, Coulthard said he saw no immediate necessity for a strike.

Elsewhere, labor raised demands at the Commercial Filters Corp., South Boston, makers of filters for submarines, destroyers and Army tanks, where 60 workmen were reported to have left their jobs.

Kenneth Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the State Federation of Labor, said the men had struck with regret but were compelled to by the company's refusal not only to raise wages and improve working conditions, but also to arbitrate differences.

Mediation Board Hears Dykstra

WASHINGTON, March 25 (INS)—Taking cognizance of the increasing number of labor disputes in defense industries, Dr. Clarence Dykstra, chairman, today told the opening session of President Roosevelt's new 11-member mediation board that management and labor must settle their controversies without strikes.

Declaring that "this is a time of world crisis," Dykstra said:

"We shall urge labor and management to prevent any further interruption in the flow of defense material. We shall ask both to settle disputes around the conference table. What we all do at such a time must be in the public interest.

"It is our obligation—tohelp labor and management reach a real agreement before production is halted. To this end we shall bend every effort.

"Too little and too late has spelled disaster in too many places already."

Bethlehem Strikers Routed by Tear Gas

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 25 (AP)—An appeal for the help of the Pennsylvania State Police was made today amid clashes between pickets and local police who used tear gas in a strike called by the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee at the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant.

As moves for possible settlement were made in two directions here, Governor Arthur H. James dispatched Commr. Lynn G. Adams, State Police head, from Harrisburg to "survey conditions."

At the same time Governor James announced the State liquor control board ordered closing all taprooms in the plant area.

The Governor acted after receiving a telegram from Sheriff W. Calvin Nickle which read:

"I will be unable to control situation with men at my disposal."

PLEADS FOR AID

In his office at nearby Easton, Sheriff Nickle said he had 25 deputies on duty, 22 of them "especially appointed" for the job.

Nickle said:

"Assistance is urgently needed."

At a mass meeting today strikers were given instructions for mass picketing.

Meantime, amid conflicting claims by union and company as to the effectiveness of the walkout avowedly aimed at closing down the plant, there were two developments in settlement efforts at this parent plant of a company with more than a billion dollars of defense contracts.

Declaring that "this is a time of world crisis," Dykstra said:

Developments included:

1—An afternoon conference between a federal conciliator, SWOC officials and leaders of the Employes Representation Plan.

2—Announcement by Howard Curtiss, district SWOC head, of a four-point program through which he said he hoped for "early termination" of the strike.

The walkout was called by the SWOC yesterday because, Curtiss charged, the Employes Representation Plan began what he said was "an illegal" election. The SWOC claims the ERP is a company-dominated union.

TEAR GAS USED

Curtiss said eventually 18,000 men would be out. There are 21,000 employes here, 18,000 eligible for union membership. The ERP, however, claims 16,000 members.

Tear gas was used by a city policeman to disperse pickets who thronged around an automobile driven by a company policeman as the car approached the main gate of the Sprawling plant while shifts were changing at 7 a. m.

AFL BREAKS CIO STRIKE AS FISTS FLY

CHICAGO, March 25 (INS)—Major violence broke out today between AFL and CIO unionists near the McCormick works of the International Harvester Co., which was reopened with AFY workers yesterday despite a CIO strike.

At least ten battlers were reported arrested. Eight CIO unionists were clubbed by police. Police were forced to hurl one tear gas bomb.

Meantime, 1000 policemen — a sixth of Chicago's uniformed force—stood by at the plant to guard workers defying the strike. A few men entered the plant this morning without interference, but the main body of returning workers, estimated to number more than 3000, planned to enter the factory in a group later despite the insistence of CIO spokesmen they would keep the plant closed.

The factory was guarded throughout the night by 300 policemen, and these were supplemented at 5 a. m. by another 700 officers. In addition, from 15 to 20 police patrol cars circled the neighborhood, breaking up all concentrations of union sympathizers.

Terminals Watched For Missing Maine Boy

Boston rail and bus terminals were watched by police today in their search for 15-year-old Robert Minor, son of Dr. Fred J. Minor of Saco, Me., who disappeared from his Maine home and telegraphed from Boston a few hours later that he was "on a trip."

Police in Springfield and New York city also searched for the missing boy in the belief he was headed south.

Earl Browder Gives Self Up

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Earl Browder, former general secretary of the Communist party, surrendered today in federal court to serve a four-year sentence for passport fraud.

His conviction was upheld last month by the U. S. Supreme Court.

A $2000 check in payment of the fine imposed on Browder was received in the mail by the court clerk.

The check, drawn on the Amalgamated Bank of New York and signed by Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Communist official, was rubber-stamped with the words, "Defense Committee of Civil Rights for Communists, 799 Broadway."

Welwel Worszower, former financial secretary of the Communist party, did not surrender to serve a two-term for passport fraud. Judge Samuel Mandelbaum ordered that his counsel's motion for suspended sentence, on the ground that Warszower is afflicted with heart failure, be referred to Judge John C. Knox, before whom he was tried.

J. D. Williams, Stage Notable, Dies in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—John D. Williams, former stage director and producer, who staged among other successes "Rain," starring the late Jeanne Eagles, died Saturday of heart disease.

In 1920 he offered the first Broadway production of Eugene O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon." He was born in Boston and attended Harvard University.

Boston Men Aboard Big Tanker in Explosion

Antonio Barnabe, 47, of 32 Fleet st., Boston, seamen of the Cities Service tanker Denver for nine years, is the father of two children, Rose, 14, and Richard, 3.

In a letter received recently by his wife, Della, Barnabe wrote the Denver was expected to arrive in Philadelphia March 28 or 29. He also told of a fire that broke out on the ship but was extinguished.

Fellow lodgers of Ramon Rodriguez, 55, at 57 Fleet st., Boston, said he had been employed on the Denver for the past three years as a wiper.

All relatives of Rodriguez live in New York, his Boston address being a rooming house.

Word that Richard N. Priestly, 31, chief engineer of the Denver, is safe was received this morning in a radio cablegram sent by him to his wife at their home in Highland ave., Wollaston.

Mrs. Priestly, mother of two small children, was on the verge of crying with happiness as she told of receiving the bare message:

"I am safe."

Nazis Raid Ships Off Greek Isle

BERLIN, March 25 (AP)—Heavy bomb hits were scored by Nazi air raiders on a British battleship in the Mediterranean southwest of the Greek island of Crete, the German high command declared today.

An "enemy outpost boat" was destroyed there, the war bulletin said, and two 8000-ton freighters were severely damaged in an air attack on a British convoy south of Crete.

Nazi raiders were said to have struck again at Valleta harbor on the British island of Malta "in the fact of the strongest defense" and to have scored hits on anchored ships and loading facilities.

PLANE TO SPEED WAR AID BILL TO F.D. AT SEA

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Vice-President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn signed the $7,000,000,000 British aid bill today, completing congressional action on the measure.

The bill was immediately sent back to the House where the enrolling clerk was to deliver it to the White House.

At the White House officials said the bill will be flown to Miami aboard a commercial plane leaving Washington at 3:45 p. m., and arriving in late evening. From there it will be flown by special plane to the President now on a vacation cruise, for his signature.

The bill will be carried by a postal inspector in a pouch along with other White House mail.

Only a parliamentary technicality kept the bill from being on its way south yesterday soon after the Senate gave it the overwhelming approval of a 67-to-9 vote. The House, however, had adjourned before the Senate acted and the rules require that it be in session when the speaker signs legislation.

With the debate over, Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana told reporters that final approval of the $7,000,000,000 appropriation for the lease-lend program had given the President "everything he has asked for."

"Now," he continued, "it is entirely up to the President to determine whether this is going to be a war measure, or, as his leaders in the Senate said, a peace measure."

Salem Wife Denies Locking Up Husband, Burning Clothes

Denying Peter husband's allegations, Mrs. Vincenza Barbarino of Salem resumed the stand in Salem Probate Court today in contesting the plea of her husband, Domenico, for separation.

Barbarino told Judge V. Phelan that his wife had burned his clothes in the furnace and then locked him in a room, forcing him to jump out a window to escape. The couple were married in 1909.

SIZZLING PLATTER

YOU, Mr. and Mrs. Free American Citizen, have the world served up to you regularly on a sizzling platter.

You get the news, the happenings, the pictures, the facts—all fresh and hot from ten million sources. And with the news you get the "sauces" of editorial opinion, the "flavors" of the feature writers—all garnished with the cartoonists' wit and byplay.

Your paper doesn't poison you or drug you into the stupidity which effects the citizens of a dictatorship after THEY sample the food their platters contain. It feeds, stimulates, strengthens you.

How IS this? Why are YOU so favored?

* * *

YOU HAVE EARNED THIS DISH OF FREEDOM. In the first place, you are guaranteed freedom of speech and thought and opinion in your basic law. You have given every man the right to report what he sees and thinks—in a newspaper, a telegram, from a soap box or a radio station.

You have done this so you can hear ALL sides, then decide for yourself what course you will follow.

You have given NO MAN—not the businessman, not the minister, not the governor, not the President of the United States, not even the Supreme Court—the right to keep NEWS from you.

You have even kept the final power over the very newspapers which serve you!

* * *

YOU HAVE KEPT THIS POWER because truth is the oxygen of Democracy. Without truth, the system would expire. Newspapers must be free to provide this truth—free to criticize, free to praise, free to report with honesty.

This is FREEDOM. This is DEMOCRACY. And most good Americans WANT IT THIS WAY!

Over 300 leading newspaper publishers join together to bring you this weekly message about the function of the press in a free nation. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Ave., New York.

Says Man Can Now Use Power of 1,000 Minds

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-manpower-mind, has within him the mind power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind power, when awakened, can make him capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields.

The author states the time has come for this long hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9,000-word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to sincere readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 133T, Los Angeles, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of free treatises have been printed.—Adv.

Solons Fail to Aid Connolly Clerks

Surprise that neither principal had appeared in support was expressed today by members of the legislative committee on public service, which heard bills to reinstate two former women employes in the Suffolk Superior Civil Court clerk's office.

Nor did the sponsors of the bills Sens. Joseph L. Murphy and Leo J. Sullivan, both of Boston, appear at the hearing — postponed from a week ago because no one had appeared for them.

FIRED BY CONNOLLY

The Murphy bill would re-employ Katherine I. Lally, and that sponsored by Sullivan would re-employ Mary T. Kennealey. Both women are veterans of the service, one being 63 years old, the other 64.

Anson B. Handy, superintendent of schools of Plymouth, today was appointed by Walter F. Downey, state commissioner of education, as the president of Hyannis State Teachers College to succeed Herbert H. Howes, who died last November.

Bills to make workmen's compensation payable from the date of injury was opposed today by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts with the contention that it would cost the state an additional $800,000 annually.

Under the present law, injured workmen must wait 14 days before receiving compensation. George L. Barnes, legislative counsel for the industrial organization, told the Legislature's committee on labor and industry that Massachusetts now is "the most generous state in the union" insofar as the waiting period is concerned.

The measures were backed by the Federation of State, City and Town Employes ,ex-Lieut.-Gov Francis E Kelly and by Rep. Edwin H. Nichols of Fitchburg.

Apparently reserving their fire for a battle on the House floor later, advocates of a pay increase for members of the Massachusetts Legislature failed to attend a hearing today on a bill to give them an additional $500 for "expenses."

The Legislature's public service committee took the measure under advisement.

Charge that national American Legion Commander Milo J. Warner made an un-American speech last Saturday by inviting the United States to go to war was made today by Senator Joseph B. Harrington (D.) of Salem.

Harrington, member of the Public Service Committee hearing the bill, said:

"I heard a speech last Saturday night in which the national commander of the American Legion invited us to go into war. In my opinion that speech was un-American.

Appointment of two independent psychiatrists under the Briggs law to examine the mental condition of John E. Flynn of Chelsea, who is being held on a charge of murder at Charles St. Jail, was announced today by Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state commissioner of mental health.

Those chosen for the tas kare Dr. Henry M. Baker and Dr. Samuel H. Epstein, both of Boston. A report of their findings will be submitted to the court where the case is scheduled for trial.

Higher license fees for wholesale cigarette dealers, jobbers and subjobbers, was advocated today before the legislative committee on taxation by Samuel Silverman, former Corporation counsel for the city of Boston and now counsel for the New England Division, National Ass'n of Cigarette Distributors, as a means of eliminating "chiselers" from the industry.

"We want to eliminate the chiseler from the cigarette industry so that he may no longer carry cigarettes as a side line as bait and lure and a loss leader," Silverman said.

A $10,000 appropriation to help finance flying cadet examination for 800 Massachusetts young men was sought today from the Legislature's ways and means committee by Maj. Willis S. Fitch, general chairman of the New England flying cadet committee.

A bill to abolish seasonal licenses for the sale of alcoholic liquor was supported today with the argument that it would wipe out "fly by night" operators, and was opposed with the contention that it would result in the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in resort communities.

Karloff as Mad Inventor In New Trans-Lux Film

BORIS KARLOFF, the screen's thrill provider, portrays a mad scientist in "The Devil Commands," melodrama opening tomorrow at the Trans-Lux.

Boris Karloff, who is frightening Broadway playgoers in "Arsenic and Old Lace" currently, comes to the Trans-Lux screen tomorrow in "The Devil Commands," which is reported to present the cinema's master monster in one of his most monstrous shockers.

"The Devil Commands" presents this actor who has made a career of monsters and ghouls as an insane inventor who believes that pure science can succeed where spiritualism has failed. In an isolated New England farmhouse, he sets up a weird laboratory, where he creates a gigantic electrical device to aid him in delving into the after-world by sending currents of electricity through the body of a living person and then through a series of cadavers.

The film reaches a climax when Karloff, completely mad by now, seizes his young daughter, played by Amanda Duff, and attempts to experiment with her in spite of the great danger involved. The arrival of the enraged townspeople, who have become infuriated with Karloff for murdering one of their neighbors, provokes him to turn on the electricity at its highest pitch in a desperate effort to achieve success.

Richard Fiske, Anne Revere, Ralph Penney, Dorothy Adams, Walter Baldwin and Kenneth MacDonald are in the supporting cast. Edward Dmytryk directed.

Powers Models In Boston Hit

A pleasant surprise for RKO Boston patrons are the Singing Powers Models, who listen as pretty as they look on magazine covers.

They are Caroline, Rosamond and Katharine, and a most fetching bunch of lovelies they are as they crowd around the mike to warble "I Give You My Word," "Mary Goes 'Round On Her Merry-Go-Round," and other popular numbers.

Not surprising at all, at all is Lee Dixon's witty persiflage, for the show's clever m. c. is one of the town's footlight favorites. Remember him in "Higher and Higher," to mention his most recent appearance here?

The Three Sophisticated Ladies, who do enough rough-and-tumble clowning as to make them as black-and-blue as their print gowns; the Kathleen Byrne Trio, a father, mother and daughter act with plenty of organ stops, and those teeterboard wonders, the Great Faludys, are others on the vaudeville bill.

The stage show continues through tomorrow, with the double-feature screen program—"This Thing Called Love," co-starring Melvyn Douglas and Rosalind Russell, and "Nobody's Children," with Edith Fellows and Lois Wilson.

Georgia Tops Gay Howard Bill

The "Saucy Serenaders" burlesquers, headed by the flame haired bombshell, Georgia Sothern, are kicking up the traces and living up to their title in lively fashion this week at the Old Howard.

The Sothern charmer, whose dancing is anything but languorous, is surrounded by bevies of beauties including Nadine Marsh, Mitzi Montay, Lambie Lane, Alma Maiben and the 30 fresh-as-spring chorus girls.

Max Fuhrman, eccentric comic; Billy Ainsley, tramp comedian, and Mac Dennison, with his comedy a la carte, are the ring-leaders in the laughs department.

On the screen, the memorable gang classic, "Scarface," and "Escape," offer a double dose of suspenseful entertainment.

'Escape' Drama Now at Beacon

"Escape," suspenseful film drama based on the best-selling novel of the same name concerning the tortures of existence under the Nazi rule, brings a star-studded cast headed by Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor to the Beacon screen.

There are brilliant portrayals by Nazimova, Conrad Veidt, Felix Bressart, Philip Dorn and others.

On the same bill is "Give Us Wings," with the Dead End Kids.

WALLACE BEERY TO RETURN TO LOEW'S SCREENS SOON IN 'THE BAD MAN'

Robin Hood Role For Old Favorite

"The Bad Man," dramatic and comical adventure story of the cattle ranges, brings Wallace Beery to Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters in the near future in his most picturesque role since "Viva Villa."

He enacts Pancho Lopez, Robin Hood of the cow country, in a whimsical adventure in which he applies bandit ethics to straighten out the lives of a group of "tenderfeet" with dramatic and sometimes ludicrous tact, Lionel Barrymore is teamed with Beery, playing the grisled rancher who isn't afraid of him, and thereby providing much comical detail to the fast moving story.

Beery and Barrymore are surrounded by a large cast of principals, including Laraine Day of the "Dr. Kildare" pictures, and Ronald Reagan, of "Knute Rockne" fame, as the sweethearts whose destinies the bandit tries to untangle. Tom Conway, English actor, is cast as the heavy and Henry Travers, Nudia Westman, Chris-Pin Martin, Charles Stevens and others are among the players.

LOVE ON THE RANGE, with Ronald Reagan and Laraine Day in a scene from "The Bad Man," Wallace Beery's new hit, which comes to Loew's State and Orpheum soon.

Quincy Girl Volunteers to Help Entertain Draftees on Leave

Pauline Likes Household Pets

Shapely Miss Would Aid 'Fun Plan'

Blue eyed and with honey-brown hair, a vivacious Quincy girl became today the first volunteer under the recently suggested "Fun Plan" for the entertainment of soldiers on leave in Boston.

"Since conscription started," wrote Miss Pauline Bradford to the Boston Evening American, "I have been wracking my brains for means to aid in the defense program. I haven't been very successful.

"However, tonight I read of a plan to have girls volunteer for dancing with soldiers on leave."

And so Pauline sprang instantly for paper and pen.

"I am at present employed in Weymouth and have three evenings a week and some Sundays off," Pauline wrote from her home in Payne st., Quincy.

"As to physical qualifications, they are as follows:

Height (in "spikes")	5 ft. 9½ in.
Weight	135 lbs.
Color, hair	honey brown
Color, eyes	iris blue
Color, skin	peaches and cream
Age	between 20 and 30

"Though tall, I am slim, not 'skinny,' and well proportioned. I believe 'Little Aoner' soldiers

"I don't generally have any trouble holding up my end of any conversation and can furnish references as to my character and dancing ability.

"Please accept my application and don't refuse me a chance to serve my country even in this small manner."

It seems, though, that Pauline was a bit modest in her letter. What she didn't disclose was that a famous modeling school voted her legs the best in a class of 75.

Also, as a matter of record, she is 21 and in high school she was on the honor roll. Now, after attending art school three years, she is an accomplished painter

She has written short stories, is an expert typist, has won swimming and diving contests and is a great reader. And she can cook.

THE U. S. Frigate Constitution, most famous of America's many vessels of war, is once more taking a back seat.

This 144-year-old ship, which for more than six decades battled British, French and pirate foes and repeatedly saved the Stars and Stripes from seizure and disgrace, has been moved from her place of honor at the Navy Yard.

FORCED TO TAKE A BACK SEAT
"Old Ironsides" Moved from Place of Honor

Only her topmasts and uppermost rigging are now visible to the thousands of Americans who come from all parts of the country to walk upon the decks of proud "Old Ironsides."

The excuse is that the berth she formerly occupied is needed by modern ships built under the recently enacted "All Out Aid to Britain" legislation.

No one seems to realize that if there had been no "Old Ironsides" there might not be any United States to go to Britain's rescue today.

Had her engagements been less successful and her intrepid crews less courageous in the War of 1812, we might easily have lost our independence and become a British colony.

Many years ago, when the Constitution was being neglected by forgetful Americans, the brilliant and proudly patriotic poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, wrote:

Ay, tear her tattered ensign down!
Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see
That banner in the sky;
Beneath it rung the battle shout,
And burst the cannon's roar;—
The meteor of the ocean air
Shall sweep the clouds no more!

Oh, better that her shattered hulk
Should sink beneath the wave!
Her thunders shook the mighty deep,
And there should be her grave;
Nail to the mast her holy flag,
Set every threadbare sail,
And give her to the god of storms,
The lightning and the gale!

That poem so stirred American souls and consciences that "Old Ironsides" was restored and made a national shrine.

School children contributed their dimes and saved the ship that had saved America for them.

WHO, NOW, IS GOING TO SPEAK FOR GOOD "OLD IRONSIDES"?

Have we another Oliver Wendell Holmes in our midst?

Or shall we take his probably good advice and sink "Old Ironsides" deep beneath the American waters she so gloriously defended in the days of her youth?

That, at least, would give her a patriot's burial and prevent her ever again having to suffer dishonor.

A MODERN GRANDMA, Mrs. Kate Studley, of Fairhaven, is 93 today and she is celebrating the happy event by having her hair bobbed.

"I want to be up-to-date," she says. "I am not really old."

These are inspiring words—vastly more inspiring than the talk of death and destruction which comes from the European battlefronts.

Actually, no one is ever any older than he thinks he is.

Age is more a state of mind than a compilation of years.

Benjamin Franklin was 81 when he was a leader at the Constitutional Convention.

Verdi was past 80 when he produced his masterpiece, "Falstaff."

Nothing was ever so poisonous as the belief that life and productivity cease at 40.

THE majority of film theater patrons are women. Thus producers are ever striving to include in films scenes which will please the feminine clients. In her next picture Marlene Dietrich is to have a scene in which she is socked in the jaw by George Raft. Constant recurrence of scenes in films in which the hero hangs one on the jaw of the heroine seems to indicate this sort of thing is very popular with female film fans. What are those of us who are doing our best to understand women to deduce from this? Can it be the feminine portion of the population agrees with that man who said: "A man, a dog, a walnut tree, the more you beat 'em the better they be."

CONFIDENTIAL: Carole Lombard's nickname for her first husband, William Powell, was "Junior." But I don't know what she calls Clark Gable . . . Among the Manhattan husbands capable of cooking the family dinner in case of necessity is Mayor LaGuardia . . . California seems to have had quite a depressing effect on Bette Davis. She has written an article in which she says she likes the New England climate and scenery better than that of California.

SIDELIGHTS: Many Seattle subscribers call attention to fact that the University of Washington has enrolled a 12-year-old freshman, Alexander Hall, Jr. Seattle seems very proud of young Mr. Hall. Maybe they should make him a sightseeing stop . . . Due to the generous scale of wages plus double time for overtime and Sunday work, it is reported some men working as hod carriers on government construction jobs are making as high as $100 a week . . . Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrill of St. Clair, Mich., celebrated their 65th anniversary in the house they have lived in all their married life. That's a long time to live in the same house. I think during my life time I have lived in about a million different apartments, flats, hotels and houses. Well, anyhow, at least, eight hundred and fifty thousand.

ASIDES: If a man offered to bet you he could drive a golf ball 500 yards would you take him up? You might lose if you did. "Titanic" Thompson made such a bet and won it. PREFERS NEW ENGLAND TO CALIFORNIA
Bette Davis, Outspoken Hollywood Actress

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- MY DAY

GEORGETOWN, S. C., Monday—Saturday morning I spent an hour at the National Gallery of Art looking at the early Italian primitives. What a marvelous collection! It seemed to me I had never seen so many priceless treasures gathered together in one place.

Mr. David Finley and his staff are particularly happy over the fact that they have had between 8000 and 9000 visitors daily. So, beauty does appeal to the American public.

In the afternoon, I went to the concert at the Library of Congress to hear the Budapest String Quartet. Which was a joy.

A few friends from New York City spent the week-end with me and on Saturday evening we saw the movie taken from Christopher Morley's book "Kitty Foyle." Ginger Rogers certainly makes an attractive and charming young lady in the principal part, and I do not wonder the gentlemen fell for her charms.

THIS MORNING my car left bright and early to meet us in Georgetown, S. C., and at noon Miss Thompson and I flew down to stay there for the night with a friend. Before we left, Dr. Martha Eliot, of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor came to my press conference this morning to tell a little more about her trip to England.

There seems to be one more fund appeal which cannot be ignored. It is the Royal Air Force Benevolent Fund of the U. S. A., Inc. Their offices are at 515 Madison ave., New York City, and they are helping the needy dependents of RAF pilots, gunners and observers, who are killed or disabled in the performance of their duty.

I think all of us have been stirred by the extraordinary services of the RAF, and you will perhaps be interested to know that the royalties from the books written by Lawrence of Arabia, were willed by him some time before his death to this fund, which was founded in 1919. He, himself, enlisted as a mechanic in the RAF and was known in the service as Aircraftsman Shaw.

One interesting thing about the fund is that neither in England nor in the United States, does a penny raised go to overhead. The necessary administrative expense is carried by the small group of people who were instrumental in setting up the fund.

Perhaps, because I like flying so much, I often think of that particular branch of the military services. I know that even in peacetime pilots worry about the care of their families in case they "go West." The men who fly daily and nightly across the enemy lines may meet death almost any time. All we can do is to give them the assurance that those they leave behind will be well cared for.

OTTO VISITS HOME OF CAB DRIVER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 25—"A cab driver named Nathan Picker recognized that his passenger was Otto, the Hapsburg Pretender," Hackie Sam Gross relates at Reuben's. "Picker conversed with Otto and said: 'I have a picture of you, which your father, the Emperor, autographed to my father.' Picker explained that his father had made a heroic achievement in Galica and was rewarded with an autographed photo of the Emperor holding Otto on his knee. And so Otto went to the home of Nathan Picker, the hackie, and saw that picture of himself" . . . "Edgar Snow, author of 'Battle Over Asia,' returned to America this week, after ten weeks in the Orient," a publisher relates at Gallagher's. "On the first day back he was invited to a luncheon with Sally Eilers. Imagine—lunching with a movie star on his first day back from a long stay in China. Result: Sally Eilers will join the Hollywood division of the Committee to Aid China" . . . "Walter Wanger and I have an agreement," William Wyler confides at the Barberry Room, "bequeathing to the survivor all initialed cuff-links and jewelry."

"MR. AND MRS. I. J. FOX lunched with the Roosevelts at the White House last week," a ringsider relates at the Havana-Madrid. "Mr. Fox then toured the Senate chambers with Sen. Lodge—who also took him for a ride on the miniature subway used by the legislators." . . . "Aviation hasn't received the publicity it deserves," Elliott Roosevelt insists at Cafe Society, "especially for an industry which has expanded nine times its size within one year" . . . "I sold many one-year subscriptions to Stage magazine, which folded last month," Renee Carroll sighs in her cloakroom at Sardi's. "And so, for the value of the unexpired portion of the subscription due them, I'm giving my clients credit in hat-check tips."

"I'M GOING to win my major letter this summer, when my analyst discharges me," Moss Hart tells Noel Coward at Martinique. "I'll get a sweater with a large 'F' on it—'F' for Freud" . . . "British royalty once was entertained in a kitchen," Nina Tarasova reveals at Casino Russe, "when Lady Rutland gave a party for Princess Mary. I was hired to sing, and Prince Alexis Obolensky also agreed to sing as a surprise for the royal guest. When he arrived he told the butler he was a singer engaged for the evening, and so he was shunted to the rear door entrance. There, in the kitchen, he saw some old Russian compatriots, for whom he began singing . . . The butler reported this to the impatient hostess—who then brought Princess Mary and the guests into the kitchen, to be entertained there by Prince Alexis Obolensky."

"WHEN I TOOK a Mediterranean cruise with Clare Boothe," Irvin Cobb's daughter "Buff" reminisces at the Stork Club, "she asked me: 'Suppose you were stuck in a small town you hated. And you had neither money nor special talent—what would you do?' I answered. 'I'd learn how to cook.' Clare shook her head, and I asked her. 'With no escape, what would YOU do?' and she said: 'I'd study Greek, of course'" . . . "Here's my daily-double," Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt reports at the Copacabana. He displays his cigarettes, encased in a Lindy's wrapper. Inserted therein is a matchbox from Belmont—the racetrack over which he presides . . . "Jerome Weidman, the novellist, is going to the hospital," a writer reports at the Gay 90's. "He requires a minor operation."

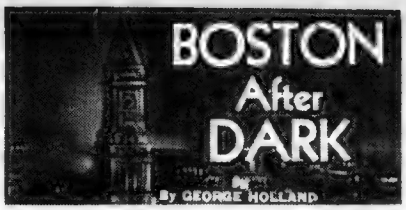
IN LINDY'S, Clifford Odets reads the London dispatches concerning W. Averell Harriman. "When I wrote the movie, 'The General Died at Dawn,' Lewis Milestone, the director, had a luxurious train built for the set," Odets reports. "I told him there are no trains like that—but he was adamant about it. Along came Harriman, head of Union Pacific. I told Milestone, 'Let's ask him'—and we did. Harriman said: 'No, trains aren't made that way.' But Milestone persisted, so I never returned to the set."



A VARIATION OF THE PAGLIACCI story is present in Morton Downey's comeback as a nightclub attraction, according to intimates of the popular tenor . . . Only hints of the heartbreak Morton suffered when his "ideal marriage" to Barbara Bennett exploded skyhigh a few months ago have been sounded in the press.

THE LITTLE DOWNEYS are a stepladder tribe of seven youngsters, and the depth of the break in the family is indicated by the fact that Papa Morton won the unofficial custody of all the children . . . Throughout the trouble, Morton has withheld any criticism of the former Miss Bennett's decision to go it alone.

BUT THOSE WHO KNEW the famous ballad-singer best realize how terribly he has suffered . . . The bell-toned tenor, who once held the highest rating of any male vocalist on the radio, turned to his profession for relief from the personal tragedy, intimates say . . . The result has been a new Downey, or a reincarnation of the old one.

REPORTS HAVE FILTERED INTO NEW YORK from Chicago and environs that Morton is crooning as effectively as he once did . . . He seems to have taken his job as entertainer seriously again, after a period of years in which the famous Downey pipes were stopped . . . The truth is (Morton's friends say) that the popular singer had been "coasting."

THEY ATTRIBUTE his devotion to his family as a chief reason why he disdained the life of a popular singer and the trouping from city to city which the life demanded.

THE DOWNEY RENAISSANCE has been reflected immediately as far east of Chicago—where he is now working—as Boston . . . Mickey Redstone, proprietor of The Mayfair, has closed a deal whereby Morton will appear at the Boston nightclub sometime next month (after Easter) or early in May . . . The reason that the date is not set (and the booking only tentative) is that Morton is working under an option arrangement . . . Those options have been lifted time and again, and the waiting-list of nightclub owners eager to book the Downey lad is a long and importunate one.

THAT THE MAYFAIR IS TRYING to maintain a policy of bringing "names" to town becomes evident with news that Lou Holtz has been signed also for a spring engagement . . . Meantime, competition of the strongest sort looms from the Ritz Roof, which will open in mid-May . . . Either Paul Whiteman or Guy Lombardo, with the odds favoring the first selection, will be the opening-week attraction.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: "Wild Willie" Werber may well be the grand team-player Deacon Bill McKechnie, his manager, believes him to be . . . But Willie, who was fairly free with his fists until he was topped by Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, did not add to his popularity with ball players when he tangled with the not-so-robust Dominic DiMaggio, also of the Red Sox, recently . . . Bespectacled Dominic tossed a punch or two himself.

TALLULAH BANKHEAD
Her Ex-Husband to Wed Tamara Geva

NOW THAT THE ANN SHERIDAN-WARNER Bros. feud has been settled, with Ann getting a slight raise in pay after losing $12,000 in wages, Hollywood has dubbed the incident "l'affaire d'oomph." Tallulah Bankhead's tremendous enthusiasm last year for the battling Finns was due undoubtedly to the star's devotion to an underdog's cause . . . But cynical Broadway is almost certain to detect a personal angle in Miss Bankhead's going "all-out" for her Finns . . . John Emery, Tallooh's erstwhile husband, is now taking as his bride, Tamara Geva, a Roosian.

PERSONAL NOTE: Damon Runyon's column had us chuckling as usual last night until—smack-dab in the middle of it we learned that Damon had the flu again . . . So have we. And it ain't funny, Magee!

SHERIDAN, REAGAN IN 'KINGS ROW'

By Louella O. Parsons

Ronald Reagan

HOLLYWOOD, March 25—I call this inspired casting. Ann Sheridan as Randy Monaghan, the girl who lived on the wrong side of the tracks in "Kings Row." What Annie would do with the role of Randy, who eventually married Drake McHugh and turned out to be a heroine after she was looked down on by all the townspeople! Sam Wood, the director of Henry Bellaman's best seller, and Hal Wallis, have been casting the picture these last few days and they both see Annie as Randy.

I talked with Sam at the Casey Robinson party. He sees Ronald Reagan as Drake. I feel Ronnie is not the type for the completely materialistic Drake but Sam wants an attractive young man who won't make the character too unpleasant. To me Ronnie could play Parris the young doctor, but Sam says the only one who can play Parris is Tyrone Power and he still hasn't despaired of borrowing Darryl Zanuck's pride and joy.

I AM HAPPY to announce I am going on the radio again. After being on the air almost seven years, I am delighted that I am putting on previews of new pictures in conjunction with all the studios. Our first program starts March 28 over Columbia, from 7:00 to 7:30 p. m. PST. Thrilling news is that "Flame of New Orleans," starring Marlene Dietrich, is our first show. Marlene and Bruce Cabot, the male lead, are the guest stars. Joe Pasternak, producer of the picture, will say a few words, and so will Director Rene Clair. In fact, Universal is helping us christen our program next Friday and I feel we are very fortunate to have such an outstanding picture for our first broadcast.

THE BUSIEST PLACE in town is Sam Goldwyn's studio. Sam is getting ready to put "The Little Foxes" into production April 15, and today he was jubilant because word had come from Herman Shumlin, producer of the Tallulah Bankhead play, that he is closing the two years' run of "The Little Foxes" in Philadelphia April 12 so Producer Goldwyn can get some of the original members of the cast. Carl Benton Reid, who played Oscar, Tallulah's brother, and Dan Duryea, who made a name as Oscar's son, will have their original roles in Sam's picture opposite Bette Davis. I hear through the grapevine route that Patricia Collinge, whose Birdie, the unhappy sister-in-law, was a high spot in the play, may be asked to join Goldwyn's galaxy of fine players.

MARY BOLAND, who created the fluttery, unstable Mrs. Malaprop, who always says the wrong thing, has a corking new play, "Meet the Wife," by Lynn Starling. If rehearsals are any indication it's going to be a riot. Russell Lewis and Howard Young are presenting Mary and the play will open at the Lobero Theater in Santa Barbara, April 11.

There will be a small wedding attended by their close friends, with Barbara's aunt in attendance.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Townsend Netcher is confiding to intimates that Bernice Parks of the original "Meet the People" cast will be the next Mrs. Netcher; Eddie Goulding has bought George Brent's house and it looks like marriage for George and Ann Sheridan; Paul Levitons, well known in Hollywood movie circles, have said adieu to married life; Gloria Swanson, who could easily pass for 27, at the Mocambo with her old friend, Gene Markey.

MRS. HAROLD G. KERN, who has just returned to her home on Beacon st. from a sojourn at Palm Beach, is shown setting out for an afternoon stroll at the popular Florida resort.

By BETTY ALDEN

WHILE ONE LARGE and fashionable group of Bostonians spends most of the next two weeks listening to beautiful arias and adding to the brilliance of the Metropolitan Opera's spring visit to the Hub . . another large group will be listening to Congas and Rhumbas 'neath a tropic moon in Puerto Rico . . .

Setting sail bright and early Thursday morning, the good ship Borinquen, flying the Stars and Stripes, will carry a crowd of vacationers southward on a ten-day jaunt to greet the spring.

This is one of the annual cruises sponsored by an energetic committee of Bostonians to raise funds for the New England Hospital for Women and Children . . .

Sounds like a very alluring way to do one's bit for charity . . During the ten-day cruise passengers will turn the ship into a floating hotel and spend long, lazy days lolling in deck chairs with no more violent exertion than deck games, swimming, bridge, dancing and basking in the warm, tropic sunshine . . .

By now the committee almost wishes the decks of the Borinquen were made of elastic so more vacationers could join the party . . . Already there's a full passenger list, and among those marching up the gangplank on Thursday will be post-deb Noel Smyth of Brookline, Mr. William C. Cox of Cohasset, Mrs. Alonzo Knights, with her son, David A. Knights, Mrs. Samuey B. Gray, Charles R. Tapley, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hale, Mrs. William B. Frothingham, Mrs. James N. White, Mrs. Harrison J. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. Comstock Clayton and many others . .

NOEL SMYTH, post-deb daughter of Mrs. P. Somers Smyth of Brookline, is leaving Thursday on the annual charity southern cruise to benefit the New England Hospital for Women and Children. Miss Smyth is the bride-to-be of William Keen Butcher of Ardmore, Pa.

VIRGINIA GARDENS ATTRACT NEWTONITES

Pre-viewing spring in Williamsburg, Virgina, where the beautiful gardens are beginning to show signs of color, are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hawkridge of Newton Center, Miss Barabara Hill of Stoneham and Mr. and Mrs. George Michelson of Brookline, all of whom are guests at the Williamsburg Inn.

GUESTS AT PALM BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Mark R. Thompson of Boston have arrived at Whitehall, Palm Beach, for a sojourn of several days.

Frontier Nursing Benefit Next Week

A WIDE-EYED AUDIENCE of youngsters from eight to eighty will spend a delightful afternoon on April 3, watching Bertram Adams, magician, conjure up all sorts of incredible feats of legerdemain on the stage at Jordan Hall . . .

While enjoying all this fun members of the audience will be doing their bit for the Frontier Nursing Association which does so much to improve the health and living conditions of the mountain folk of Kentucky . . .

As most Bostonians know, the Frontier Nursing Association was founded some dozen or more years ago by Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, of the famous Kentucky Breckenridges, who established nursing services in the mountains to provide more adequate care of the sick and needy mountain people . . .

Everyone loves to be fooled by a magician so a large and fashionable audience is assured for the benefit performance of Mr. Adams . . . Mrs. Percival D. Shepard, general chairman of the affair, is being assisted by Mrs. Joseph T. Walker, Jr., in charge of posters, Mrs. John L. Grandin, Jr., tickets; Mrs. Samuel D. Kirkland, publicity; and Mrs. Guido Perera, who is chairman of the Boston group of Frontier Nurses . . .

Debs of the '20s Hold Reunion

MINUS THE FLOPPY OVERSHOES, Scott Fitzgerald novels and incredible hair-dos of the flapper age, Boston debutantes of the winters from 1920-23 got together for a reunion today at the Junior League . . .

The party was a luncheon, and as the first official debutante reunion ever sponsored by the League, set a precedent for girls of other years to follow . . .

Among the smartly clad 20-year-outers were Mrs. C. Rodgers Burgin, Mrs. John R. Flather, Mrs. William V. Tripp, Jr., Miss Ellen Whitney, Miss Eleanor Hunneman, Dr. Elizabeth DeBlois, Mrs. Franc D. Ingraham, Mrs. John Chase and others . . .

Regency Influence Marks Spring's Dressy Town Suit

By ANNICE BRINK

PERHAPS the first comprehensive showing of a number of the smartest fashions shown in New York at the Fashion Futures paraded onto the runway of the Copley-Plaza's Sheraton Room over the week-end, at a luncheon show, to the strains of what's fast becoming the fashion show music classic . . . Easter Parade.

It definitely established the Regency influence . . . the dandified period when stock collars of frilled lace were high under the chin, and jackets were short to show a small waistline . . . for the dressy town suit. Sometimes it would be a jacket and skirt affair, other times a complete frock under a jacket . . . what's commonly known as an ensemble . . . but in all cases there was a cascade of lace under the chin, and usually a heavy ruffle at the bracelet length sleeve.

Tweeds and light woolens which were shown, both for town and country, were done in the South American way . . . but with a difference. In no case (in the woolen department, that is) were the shades as strident and harsh as undiluted South American tones were in the beginning They were softened, wearable . . . for instance, hot orange was softened to a warm apricot . . . the greens were brilliant but not poisonous. In short, the colors were really wearable, flattering adaptations of the South American influence.

Skirts were far from straight . . . in motion . . . but they did give a straight line in repose. And not a single ballerina skirt was in sight. A wonderful tunic skirt, cut with a full flare, dipped down the front in a point, in a navy afternoon frock. And that same front-dipped tunic was carried out in a stunning evening gown. Flowered blue crepe was used . . . and the tunic point in front was so long that the whole gown seemed to be of flowered faille until the model turned to show a slim under-tunic skirt of navy . . . the tunic itself came to the knees in back!

Pattern 9597 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric and ¼ yard contrast.

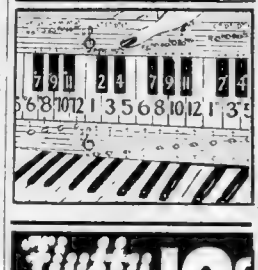
Teach Yourself to Play Piano



Music, what enchanted moments it creates for you and your listeners! You are the weaver of magic spells when you play the piano. A dreamy waltz and you lull your grateful hearers into a restful mood—a gay march and toes are tapping.

There needn't be any drudgery about learning how to play. You can easily teach yourself.

Right from the start you make rapid strides in reading notes. A "life-size" chart pictures the most used part of the piano keyboard and with each key is the note that is its symbol in music.

When you've placed this chart behind your real keyboard, a quick glance—from music to chart—shows what key to play for each note.

Soon you're playing tunes, learning waltz and march rhythms. Then to play popular hits by a simple short-cut method.

This easy way to play popular hits is fully explained in our 24-page instruction book, A Short Cut to Piano Playing. Includes the key-board chart and table of chords. Explains musical terms, time values. Has six favorite tunes.

You Can Be Beautiful

THE SOFTER fashion goes . . . the more ringlets and bows . . . and bared shoulders . . . the more necessary is a flawless looking skin . . . young, soft, unlined . . . and if yours hasn't the wonderfully moist freshness that betokens youth . . . 'Moisture Cream' Simply 'Lifts' Out the Lines

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU'VE HEARD us rant about what late hours, fatigue and atmospheric grime perpetrate on complexions . . . making them look old and worn . . . but suppose you lavish care on your skin . . . and you sleep enough . . . and you have energy to burn . . . and still your skin looks more than your birthdays rate . .

It means you have a particularly dry, thin type . . . And as a last resort (or as a first resort if you're quite young and the lines are beginning to march in on you already) use an extraordinary anti-line cream, the pride of an elegant cosmetic line.

Perhaps one of the reasons why this is such a successful group of cosmetics is that nature's bounty is ransacked for complexion beautifiers . . . and no problem of preserving and relaying natural substances is too big, if it will do something grand for your complexion.

In this case (and no such aid exists anywhere else in the world, to our knowledge) there are real, golden egg yolks added to the other very special and secret ingredients of a "moisture cream." This moisture cream is prepared for all out aid to you in fighting wrinkles, crows feet and crepiness.

It's been called the fastest working cream of its kind . . . with results noticeable within half an hour after using it . . . for a pick-up treatment. Ordinarily you'd use it for half an hour before bedtime . . . and you'd be particularly faithful to it after a very trying day, when you're dead tired and your face looks like last night's gardenias.

This is not a pick-up masque . . . don't mistake it . . . it's a moisture and smoothing treatment. In the cream are certain astringents also, so delicately balanced that they will smooth the skin without drying it . . . while they "lift" out the lines and crepey, ridged look.

If you'd like all information on this exclusive "moisture cream" phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Canned Vegetables in Order

By MARTHA LEE

THE TIN CAN has probably done more than anything else to make good food available at reasonable prices.

Why some intelligent, modern-minded women still hesitate to give their families canned vegetables is a mystery. They serve other ready prepared foods as a matter of course—bread, rolls, soups, pickles, jellies, jams, and even pies and cookies. Yet they spend hours in the kitchen scraping, peeling and washing vegetables. The reason probably is that they don't know enough about canned vegetables.

The modern canned vegetable supplies all the nutritive value that you get in raw vegetables bought at the market and cooked at home.

All canned vegetables are cooked with little or no seasoning. That's to give you a chance to season them to your own liking. Save every precious drop of juice. It makes wonderful sauces and soups, and has rich food value. Vegetables come in a variety of sizes so you may choose the size that is best for your family.

Learn to use canned vegetables not only by themselves, but in combination with other foods to make delectable dishes.

Stir in the flour and when browned add pickle relish, Worcestershire sauce, tomatoes, and liquid drained from the mixed vegetables. Simmer gently until thickened (about an hour). By Anthony Rud

Why, they'd even gone and named a beautiful long road after Tamiami here! Or maybe it was the other way around.

Bobby Junior would be able to tell his own turtle, on account somebody had taken a pyrograph needle and burned "Tamiami, 1940" on the light-colored part of his shell.

There also was a hole bored through the stern or poopdeck end of the shell. If you wanted to be sure, said the dad, that Tamiami didn't sprout wings in the night, and go flying away like one of those tyrannosore-eyes Walt Disney had animated for "Fantasia," you just got yourself a steel cable like the Normandie uses when it anchors, attach one end of the chain to the shell-hole, and the other to a good, stout elm tree like the one in the north garden.

Then you could feel reasonably sure you'd still have your pet when you came out from breakfast, all dressed and washed and ready for kindergarten, wanting to say hello.

(The dad, of course, had been away over a whole year now, and wouldn't be able to realize that you had started real progressive school, were all through with kindergarten and other childish things, and were busy deciding whether you'd major in hop-skotch or abstractionist painting . . . or maybe in touch football if a couple more boys joined the school and you could muster two teams . . .)

You got a good strong piece of gray cord that had been around a cardboard box sent out from Macy's. This was so strong you could lift Tamiami with it. You tied the other end to a birch tree, because the elm was too big around.

BURIED ALIVE

Sure enough, Tamiami was there all right next morning—and for seven or eight more mornings. Then one night it got pretty chilly for early October. Next morning when you went out the cord was still attached to the birch tree, but the other end went straight down into the ground! Somebody had come and buried poor Tamiami alive!

Running to the coolie house where the tools were kept, you grabbed a spade-fork and jammed it down. You dug, and by and by you had Tamiami safe and sound again. He was sort of slow motion and sleepy, but when you took him into the kitchen by the gas oven, and fed him little bits of hamburg, he poked out his neck and gobbled food. So he was all right.

A couple of nights later, though, he was gone again—and this time the cord was frayed and broken. No sign of where he was buried. You cried and cried, and wanted to write the dad about it, only you hadn't learned enough words to say what you wanted to say.

So you asked the moms to write for you. It was funny then. Moms shook her head, and her nice, sweet mouth got hard like an icicle straight across.

"I've never been able to keep track of that man, Bobby," she said, "and now I've quit trying. Maybe in a year or two—" and it sounded funny like she was mad and wanting to cry, all at once. "Maybe in a year or two I'll trade him in, and get you a nice new model papa, a sort of domestic, upright model. Only—I don't think men are made in upright mode's any more. Only concert grands, that spread themselves out all over the place . . ."

"I want my own dad," you said.

"Well I don't!" snapped Moms, and ran away quick. You knew she was crying, probably because she lied to you. It had been a lie, of course. Nobody could help wanting the dad—big, and sun-bronzed, dressed all in cream white, and going around all the oceans in the yachts he sold . . . usually second-hand yachts that belonged to what the dad called slightly-used millionaires.

For the next two weeks you gave up touch football, even when Beansie McGann got a brand new Brooklyn Dodgers model football, with Ace Parker's name written right on the leather. You hunted up and down the alleys, in the neighbors' gardens, now brown and wilted. You got down on hands and knees, and pulled yourself through the double barberry hedge, which was all prickles and red berries that tasted nasty.

But Tamiami had gone forever. Maybe he'd got lonesome for the Sunny South, Moms said, and had started overland. Men were likely to have an itching foot, and refuse to stay tied down to those who loved them . . .

Moms got you a little striped kitten, a funny little fella higher in back than he was in front, and what Moms called a Manx. He didn't have a tail at all, but was sort of like the bear who sat down on the railway track.

Moms put a blue ribbon around the kitten's neck, and you decided to call him Cuddles.

LIBERTY OR DEATH

That was all right except for one thing. He wouldn't let you pet him! Just as soon as you'd stroke his hair, he'd swell up and spit, arching his back. Then he'd take a bat at your hand with his claws out. At first it was just funny, but after a while those claws got so they could hurt, and you left him alone.

The only time he ever got real clubby was a time when Moms got some catnip and rubbed it on your hand and sleeve. Then the kitten came and rubbed hard against it, going miauw! miauw!

Next day he wouldn't be friends, though, so you changed his name and called him Patrick Henry. You know, the fella teacher talks about, who said gimme liberty or gimme death! You always thought Patrick Henry must have been made to stay after school some time or other, and write, "I will be a better boy," 100 whole times, because of throwing spitballs.

A fella couldn't get any fun out of a cat that just wanted to sit on a chair in front of the log fire and look proud, though. You took to wandering out in the ward, where a little powder snow was coming down afternoons and nights now. You were looking for Tamiami, though of course if you found him he'd just be frozen stiff, and dead like that newt lizard Beansie McGann left on the outside of the school window.

Of course you had no luck. You figured it out. A turtle walks real slow; but even at 10 miles a day, Tamiami would be down somewhere in Georgia, maybe even to the Florida line, by January first. Down somewhere near the dad . . .

After Christmas, came skating, and for a while it was all right. Then there was deep snow, and you used your new skis on the little hills there on the Garden City golf course. Winter is a good part of the year, and pets aren't so important.

Then after a while the snows all melted, and for a while the big field next to St. Paul's was all brown and dreary looking with dead grass and mud. In a few weeks there'd be lots of big boys out there, batting and pitching, and catching long flies. There was a smell of spring in the air, but no green grass yet.

The dead, dumb weeks. Then a real warm sun, and the boys out with marbles and baseballs. Then dad sent you up a real official National League ball, covered with tinfoil. It was almost too big to hold, but you were very proud of it. All the other boys wanted to play with you.

One night you were all tired from playing, and were sitting on the hassock in front of the log fire. Moms was reading a big book about a bell tolling or something. It was real balmy and warm for early May, and the windows were still open. Daylight wasn't quite gone. There came a funny little scratch at the front door.

First you thought it was Patrick Henry. But no, the cat was right there by the fire. Moms looked up. The scratch came again. She put down the big book and got up. You saw a puzzled expression on her face when she went to the front door and swung it open.

At first she didn't seem to see anyone. Then she gave a surprised cry: "Why Bobby, come here!" she said. "It's Tamiami—come back! My heavens, how in the world did that turtle get up the front steps, and scratch at the door?"

You didn't really care about that. With a delighted squeal you pounced on Tamiami and hugged him, not caring that he was all over soft mud, just as if he'd just come up out of the garden where he'd been buried alive.

"Moms!" you cried. "Lookit!" There's still a piece of that string tied to his shell! And there's a card tied to the end of the string!

"Moms, it's the dad's card! It's got somep'n written on it. Lookit. It says, 'I'd come in, too, if I could have only just as much welcome as Tamiami. Robert.' Does that mean, Moms, that—"

But you saw Moms' eyes grow big and round, and what looked like tears make them suddenly bright. Her hand went up to her throat, and she sort of gasped, turning pale. Then she went right out there on to the porch, where it was getting dark, and there were funny sounds like she was crying.

Then the dad came in his arm over her shoulders and a big grin on his face. He went down on one knee and hugged you, and for a while you even forgot all about Tamiami, you were so glad.

"You're going to stay, daddie?" you asked excitedly.

"If Moms will let me," he told you straight, man to man. "Uncle Sam says he needs naval architects now, down at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and I'm elected. So I guess I'll be around this time for the duration. It's the first time I've had a chance to practice my profession in exactly eleven years."

You saw Moms kiss the side of his cheek, then suddenly grab up Tamiami from the floor and run back into the kitchen to wash the mud off the turtle. But you just smiled, happy as all heck. You knew Moms was happy too, because she was crying. Women are funny like that. No boy would ever cry for that reason, no, not even when he got a real dad back from Florida, and didn't have to bother with any new, upright models at all.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

cided with the gathering of Axis leaders in Vienna today to welcome Yugoslavia into the German-Italian-Japanese camp.

SOVIET POLICY

The Soviet declaration was regarded by these circles as a further development of Russian policy reflected when the Kremlin publicly announced earlier this month its disapproval of Bulgaria's action in opening her frontiers to German troops.

Observers expressed belief Russia was feeling increasing concern for her own vital interests, not only in the Balkan zone, but in a larger sphere.

With German armies less than 100 miles from the Dardanelles, the Reich in control of the entrance to the Baltic sea and Japan established in the Pacific with a vastly superior fleet, Russia is virtually landlocked from a strategic point of view, these sources said. In the far north, Russia has only one year-round ice-free port, Murmansk.

BLOW TO NAZIS

Russia's reported action in cutting off oil shipments to Germany—a step she was said to have taken immediately after Nazi troops entered Bulgaria—was seen as a potentially heavy blow to the Reich.

Experts said the petroleum Germany is able to obtain from Rumania, one of her main sources of supply, produces an inferior grade of lubricating oil—a vital factor in operations of the Reich's air fleet, navy and mechanized army units.

The Russian pledge to Turkey, announced here in a special communique promised "full and comprehensive neutrality," should Turkey become "the object of aggression and find herself obliged to enter war for the defense of her territory."

Auto Crashes Up by 3200

There were 3200 more automobile accidents and 19 more motor deaths in 1940 than in the year previous, it was reported by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin.

A total of 69,321 vehicles were involved in 43,571 accidents during 1940, compared to 63,221 machines in 40,367 accidents in 1939. Deaths of 599 in 1939 increased to 618 last year.

Operators driving after drinking intoxicating liquor were involved in 668 accidents in which 49 persons were killed, and 716 injured last year. Thirty drunken pedestrians were also killed by motor vehicles during the year.

The peak hour for both fatal and non-fatal accidents was from 5 to 6 p. m., according to the summary.

More accidents occurred on Saturday than on any other day in the week the summary indicated, while Tuesday had the fewest accidents.

Anderson May Form New Racket Squad

With Deputy Supt John. M. Anderson formally installed as inspector of police divisions, the police high command today was studying the possibility of forming a new racket squad.

Sergt. Joseph Maraghy and Officers Ernest Love and Gaetano DiGiacomo, who had been operating a racket-smashing squad, were sent back to their former posts as Anderson took over his new duties.

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law and is the same to everyone.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers with you.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

FRANK RYAN says that the Bruins management only netted $2300 out of each of the playoff games with the Maple Leafs in Boston.

"The Boston Elevated Railway Co. made as much money from the games as we did," said Ryan. "The biggest share of the spoils went to the Garden which received 42½ per cent of the gate under our rental agreement . . . The players' share of the playoff money plus other expenses made our total profit for the two games $4600.

"I do not believe anyone who says we are commercializing sports is justified. The people like the playoffs. The best proof of this statement was the attendance figures at the two Boston games. They would have been much larger if we had more seats to sell.

"The Bruins do much better financially during regular season games than in playoffs. We have accepted the arrangements on playoffs as a part of the entire hockey picture. I think they help the sport and give the fans a few added thrills.

"The players take great physical risks in playoff games in their eagerness to win. One of the players may suffer an injury at any time that will permanently put him out of hockey. If Bill Cowley's knee injury had been more serious than it turned out to be, or Bobby Bauer was so badly crippled that he could not play again, the $4600 the Bruin management got out of the two Boston games could not have compensated it for its loss."

I admit I was surprised when I saw the figures that showed the Bruins only benefited to the extent of $4600 from two sell-out games. The most common thing in sports is to overestimate attendance figures as well as profits.

The official Red Sox figures recently showed that Tom Yawkey has lost $1,300,000 with his ball club.

Bruins Originally Cost $15,000

WHEN THE Bruins first played hockey at the Arena, the franchise was valued at only $15,000. Its players were not worth more than $10,000. The first year of operations saw the club finish in the red.

Charles F. Adams then made a deal by which he purchased the entire Western Hockey League for $100,000. It was a daring stroke of business and proved very successful. Adams was able to furnish his own club with sufficient players, and have enough players left over to sell to other clubs for close to $100,000. By this move Adams got his original investment back, and had the players he needed for the Bruins.

I would appraise the Bruins of today at $300,000. This is one of the reasons there has not been a sale of the club in the outside market. The tax on the sale of the club would have been so heavy that it would have taken a huge slice of the purchase price.

This caused Adams to decide to sell the Bruins to his son, Weston W. Adams, under an agreement that requires several years to consummate. This arrangement keeps the tax figures down.

All hockey clubs have not been as successful financially as the Bruins. There is the case of the New York Americans which cost Bill Dwyer, their former owner, a fortune. The club has never made money.

After Dwyer tossed in the sponge, the league operated the Americans, but without success. There is talk that the Americans will not be in the hockey field next season.

The Rangers, of course, would benefit if they were the only club in New York.

It has been found that two hockey teams do not do well in the same city. For several years Cecil Hart and other Montreal interests tried to get Charles F. Adams to permit them to place a second team in Boston. Adams opposed the plan on the grounds that only one club could survive here.

Later happenings in Montreal where the Maroons were abandoned and in New York where the Americans have been on the financial rocks bears out Adams' judgment on this matter.

Riding With Bruins to Win Series

I AM STILL riding with the Bruins to win the playoff series with the Toronto Maple Leafs. On what the Bruins showed in the opening clash of the playoffs, they are a much better club than the Maple Leafs.

The injuries suffered by Bill Cowley and Bobby Bauer were responsible for the failure of the Bruins to win the second game of the series. It is expected that Cowley will be back in the game tonight.

Last year the Bruins failed to win the Stanley Cup on account of injuries. The supporters of the Bruins hope that mishaps will also not ruin the chances of the team in the Stanley Cup series this season.

The Bruins proved during the regular season that they are the class of the league. It would be a severe blow to Boston hockey if a series of injuries should deprive the club of the chance to capture the famous Stanley Cup.

Tonight's battle at Toronto will be an important factor in the future of the Bruins in the playoffs.

LEAFS CHOICE TONIGHT OVER CRIPPLED BRUINS

TORONTO, Ont., March 25—Conservative Torontonians jubilant over the return of Syl Apps and knowing full well that Bobby Bauer is definitely sidelined, still refuse to make the Leafs no better than a slim 11 to 10 favorite over the Bruins in tonight's affair here at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

SYL APPS
"I'm Ready for Action"

The word was passed around town this morning that little Bobby Bauer, the sparkplug on the famed Kraut line, is definitely out and that Bill Cowley, leading N. H. L. scorer for the campaign just completed, may possibly be lost. Yet, backers of the Connie Smythe's charges still have a wholesome respect for the Rossmen.

They know that the Bruins were a much superior team in the first play-off clash between these two outfits last Thursday and that on Saturday night, the short handed B's still picked up a two-goal lead before that disastrous second period lapse which cost them the game.

So, even with the series deadlocked at one all, and the Leafs having the knowledge that Apps who ranks with Bill Cowley as the top center in the league, back, natives still refuse to believe that the Happy Day coached club is in for a soft evening.

And they are right.

COWLEY KNEE IMPROVED

The Bruins are not a bit downhearted over Saturday night's loss. They feel that if they can take one of the two games scheduled here tonight and Thursday, they can win that first round and go into the finals. And they would like nothing better than to grab that first game tonight.

Everybody but the two cripples are in good shape and the report on this pair is far from discouraging.

Doctors Martin Crotty and Tom Kelley together with Hammy Morse have been working overtime on both Cowley and Bauer.

Yesterday it looked as though Bauer would be ready and Cowley would be lost and today the picture is just reversed.

Cowley's knee is much improved and the cowboy is going to skate at the Maple Leaf Gardens late this afternoon and if he can cut and put any pressure on the injured member he will play tonight—his chances look good.

McREAVY JOINS TEAM

Bauer's case is an aggravating type of simple injury about which little can be done. He has a cut on the instep and had two stitches taken. The stitching has been removed but there is still a swelling and soreness.

This morning, Bauer was still getting around with a cane. The only hopeful sign, though, is that this type of mishap can ease up in pain enough in a very short time to put Bauer back in action.

Little Robert insists he's going to try to skate with Cowley this afternoon but the Bruins' medical staff are extremely dubious despite Bauer's high hopes.

If Bauer is out, Flash Hollett will again move up forward to fill in and the Bruins will play with three defense men. Pat McReavy who was rushed north from Hershey will dress as the 14th man but will see very little action unless absolutely necessary.

* * *

The Bruins were amazed at the crowd that gathered at the Union station but they soon found out the cheers weren't for them . . . It happened a fellow named Wendell Willkie came up on the same train—remember?

Pat McReavy met the Bruins at Buffalo and made the rest of the trip with the squad . . .

$94,700 Purses At Keeneland Spring Meet

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 25 (AP)—Keenland race course will distribute $94,700 in purse money at its 11-day spring meeting beginning April 10, the largest sum in the Lexington track's history.

The increase, another in the steady succession since the track's inaugural meeting in the fall of 1936, resulted from boosts in the average purse. The minimum purse of $800 remains unchanged.

The track distributed $83,900 during its 11-day spring meeting last year.

The highlight of the spring meeting will be the $10,000 Blue Grass Stakes on the closing day, April 24, but four other stakes races with $2500 added money each will be run during the meeting.

COAST RINGMEN OFF FOR HUB

Eight strong, sturdy youngsters from the Pacific Coast, under the guidance of Al Sandell, chief inspector of the northern district of California's State Athletic Commission, left San Francisco yesterday afternoon for Boston where they will take part in the big National A. A. U. boxing championships at the Garden on March 31, April 1 and 2.

The California team will arrive in the Hub next Friday noon.

Thirty-five years ago the National tournament was held in 'Frisco and that year every one of the eight titles was won by a local boy. According to Sandell, the team he is bringing East is one of the best ever to come out of the Pacific Coast district, and he feels certain that his boys will make a grand showing in the coming Nationals. For years the California contingent has gone through the championships in real fighting fashion.

Ripper Collins To Understudy Elbie Fletcher

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP)—President Dave Fleming of the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League sold First Baseman James "Rip" Collins to the Pittsburgh Pirates for $5000 today.

"Rip" will be an understudy for First Sacker Elbie Fletcher.

Collins came to Los Angeles in 1939 from the Chicago Cubs. He was the Coast league home run leader for 1939 with 26 In both seasons here, he ranked with the leaders in runs driven in and was conceded to be the best fielding first baseman in the Coast circuit.

This spring, Collins was listed as a holdout. He declined to sign a Los Angeles contract for $800 a month because he saw an opportunity to returnr to major league baseball.

PNEUMONIA FELLS OLIVER

FT. DIX, N. J., March 25 (AP)—Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., nationally known golfer, is ill of pneumonia in the post hospital.

He was stricken several days ago. His condition was described as "not serious." Oliver was inducted into the Army early this month.

Havana Trip Next for Sox

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 25—The Red Sox face Kansas City here this afternoon, then kiss Sarasota adieu for another year as they depart this evening for a four-day stay in Havana via Miami.

The squad has spent exactly one month here, and it has been most productive. With the exception of Ted Williams, every player is in excellent condition. There is not a sore arm among the pitchers.

Williams, nursing his injured right ankle, will remain at home with Jack Wilson, Mike Ryba, Oscar Judd, Tex Hughson, Al Flair, Norman Brown, Paul Campbell and Red Walsh.

Ryba and Judd were to work against Kansas City today and will not be needed in the land of the Fandango. Jack Wilson is considered sufficiently advanced to be allowed to skip the trip.

But in the case of Hughson, Flair, Brown, Campbell and Walsh, their failure to accompany their mates no doubt means that they are due for the axe.

MANUSH GETS WALSH

Walsh, the kid from Exeter, N. H., was not expected to stay anyway. In fact, he isn't even on the roster. A former infielder, he was brought down here early so that he could learn the rudiments of catching, and he has done remarkably well.

He will work out with the Louisville Colonels at Bradenton until March 30, at which time he will report to Heinie Manush of Greensboro, N. C. There he will be given a chance to catch daily, and that's what he needs the most.

Flair is headed for Baltimore, Hughson for Louisville and Brown for Little Rock but nobody knows what will become of Campbell. The slick fielding first baseman has been displaced at Louisville by the harder hitting Ulysses Lupien, and may be sold outright. It's a cinch he never will get to play first base for the Sox with Foxx still around and Flair ready to succeed Jimmie.

The players staying at home will work out daily with Louisville and rejoin the Sox when they reach Dothan, Ala., on April 1, but it is unlikely that Hughson, Brown or Campbell will be carried that far. Flair, however, probably will stay with the club until it reaches Baltimore on April 11.

JOHNSON MAY GO ROUTE

The Sox will play the Phillies in Miami tomorrow, and Herb Hash and Emerson Dickman will pitch.

Tomorrow night the boys will take the boat at Miami and arrive in Cuba Thursday morning. That afternoon they will play an independent Cuban team, and Friday, Saturday and Sunday they will take on the World Champion Cincinnati Reds.

Earl Johnson will be given a chance to go nine innings in one of the games against the Reds.

It is significant that Jim Tabor is making the trip. The big third sacker has been on the blacklist since his training break last week, but was used as a pinch hitter against Baltimore yesterday. The Sox need him.

Bees' Hurlers Fit

Casey Tries Ferrell Again

By BILL GRIMES

AUSTIN, Tex., March 25 — Now that the Bees are all even in the series with the St. Louis Browns, each team having won four games, Manager Casey Stengel is in a position to do some more speculating.

Although he is down here in the Lone Star State to try out youngsters as well as round out his regular club, Manager Stengel has put the pressure on the Haneymen since the second game in Monterrey.

At the close of that contest, the Browns had won four games and the Bees only one. Of course, it's an admitted fact that at that stage of the series the Stengelese should have been out in front. They tossed away a couple of games and Umpire Ziggy Sears' "Mexican" decision at Monterrey cost them another decision.

The Bees have taken three in a row from the Browns. Bill Posedel and Jim Tobin accounted for two of the victories and Dick Errickson and Manny Salvo were credited with one win. In the last three games, the Bees hurlers have displayed mid season form. And, anytime that the Stengelmen get good pitching, they are odds on favorites.

FERRELL TO HURL

With the series "all flat," Manager Stengel will give Wes Ferrell another chance to show how he's progressing in his comeback. On his first start, Wes was not impressive but in fairness to the handsome veteran, it must be admitted that he didn't bear down any too strenuously. He seemed to be concentrating on control and his pitching form was entirely different than that which he used in batting practice and while rounding his arm into shape.

In all probability, Wes Ferrell will not attempt to go more than three or four innings. And, when he is satisfied that he has had enough, Wes will step down in favor of Frank Lannanna, the promising right hander from Hartford.

SENDS ACES

Manager Fred Haney is burnt up over the failure of his Browns to hit in the last three games with the Bees. He will send his best club against the Bees this afternoon and announced this morning that Bob Harris would start and go five innings, after which Jack Kramer would take over the mound duties.

The Bees arrived here late last night after travelling in a deluxe cruiser from San Antonio to College Station and then back to the state capital, a total of 306 miles.

STANLEY CUP PLAYOFFS REACH DECISIVE STAGE

By the Associated Press

The National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs get to the decisive stage for the first time tonight, and apparently the decision still is up to the doctors and the officials.

The six teams paired off in the first rounds have won a game apiece. Since two of those series are two-of-three games affairs, tonight's contests will be the last between the Detroit Red Wings and the New York Rangers and between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Montreal Canadiens.

The two winners then will play a two-of-three series for the right to meet the Boston-Toronto victor.

The Boston Bruins, league champions, and the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs continue until one of them has won four games, so tonight's encounter—the first at Toronto — cannot settle things definitely.

Still it may be a "crucial" meeting for several reasons. The Leafs managed to win a game on Boston ice, where all the other playoff games so far have seen the home team come out ahead. So now, the Bruins have to win one of three at Toronto, as well as their remaining home games, to go into the Stanley Cup finals.

Injuries are a big factor in the Toronto-Boston series, too. The Bruins lost Bill Cowley, star playmaking center and the league's highest scorer, and little Bobby Bauer through injuries in the first game.

Their absence was felt in the second game, which the Bruins lost, and only Cowley seemed to have much chance of coming back to play today. The Bruins brought up Pat McCreavy from the Hershey Bears to help plug the gap.

Toronto hopes to have Syl Apps, another star center, back in harness after several weeks' absence due to a knee injury, but the doctors have to pass on his condition first. Defenseman Bingo Kampman, who also missed the first two games, still is bothered by a bad ankle. Hank Goldup, Lex Chisholm and Jack Church also aren't in top condition.

The Detroit-Ranger series between the third and fourth-place clubs has required more attention from the officials than the doctors so far. But Detroit's defense ace, Ebbie Goodfellow, reported with a badly-bruised right elbow yesterday.

And several Rangers are nursing cuts.

Ice Title Chance Offered Barons

By the Associated Press

The Cleveland Barons have a chance to step into the final round of the American Hockey League's championship playoffs tonight, while two other western division clubs, Hershey and Pittsburgh, are only starting their battle to reach the same position.

Cleveland holds a 2-1 lead over the Providence Reds in the fraternal strife between the division's first-place clubs. One more victory tonight will eliminate the 1940 champions, as the leaders play on a three-of-five basis.

Hershey, second during the regular season, eliminated its Eastern rival, New Haven, and Pittsburgh ousted the Springfield Indians in the third-place series.

Tonight's encounter at Pittsburgh opens their best-of-three semi-final playoff. The winner will go against the survivor of the Cleveland-Providence struggle. The last two games of the semi-final will be played at Hershey Thursday and Saturday.

RED SOX LUCKY TO EDGE OUT BALTIMORE, 4 TO 3

SARASOTA, March 25—The Red Sox nosed out the Baltimore Orioles, 4 and 3, and were lucky. Two of their markers were unearned and the visitors tossed away scoring opportunities by dizzy running.

Leading 3 to 0 at the end of six innings, the Croninmen saw the last vestige of that lead disappear in the eighth when George Polzer, a Cornell University gift to the Orioles made a clean steal home while Dick Newsome was taking a long windup.

The Fenway first-stringers started the tilt, but after failing to score in three innings against one Don Kerr all but Stan Spence and Sammy Hale retired in favor of shock troops.

The kids lost no time in finding the starting Baltimore boxman for three runs.

Those markers loomed large, indeed, what with little Charlie Wagner yielding only one hit and one walk while pitching five scoreless innings.

But Newsome again failed to fool a minor league entry. He tossed away the three-run edge just as he had against the Newark Bears last Wednesday.

When it was all over, our heroes had the elongated Al Flair and the diminutive Paul Campbell to thank for the decision.

Campbell, going to right field in place of Finney in the fourth, tripled to left to rescue Johnny Peacock with the first run of the matinee.

The next frame saw Flair double after Spence singled for his third hit. Both runners eventually counted.

In the sixth, Al and Paul singled to no avail at the expense of Russ Niller, a 19-year-old Baltimore schoolboy, but it was a slightly different story when they came up in the ninth against Jack Mueller, another Oriole rookie.

Campbell ushered in the frame by reaching first on an error by third sacker Tom Hafey, promptly stole second and took third as Spence was rolling out.

Flair was ordered purposely walked, the Baltimore strategists hoping for a double play, but young Al ruined that plan by stealing second.

Then Skeeter Newsome came through with a fly to deep left and the game was over.

Casey's New Theory Looks Good in Test

By the Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Here's a hint for those who believe the Brooklyn Dodgers have given up on Babe Phelps, the big catcher who failed to put in an appearance at training camp. Phelps wired yesterday he was ready to report. In reply, Secretary John McDonald told him he could join the Montreal "farm" club at Macon, Ga., and get into shape at his own expense. But, McDonald added:

"We wired that we'd try to get him a rate at the hotel."

FT. MYERS, Fla.—Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's crack shortstop, is expected to remain out of action until the club breaks camp here Friday. He sprained an ankle before yesterday's game with the Phillies.

AUSTIN, Tex.—Casey Stengel's theory of using right-handed outfielders when his Boston Bees meet left-handed pitching will await a test against major league pitching, although it looked all right against Texas A. and M. College yesterday. Mel Preibisch, Don Manno and Claude Wilborn started the game, and they all hit hard.

ANAHEIM, Cal.—No matter what happens to the White Sox in today's game with the Athletics, it can't be much worse for Jess Dobernic, Chicago rookie hurler. He was struck in the face by a batted ball in hitting practice, retired to the bench and was hit on the head by a foul ball during the game. He called it a day and retired to the clubhouse while his mates took an 18-1 plastering from the Cubs.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—With Hugh Mulcahy in the Army and Kirby Higbe sold to Brooklyn, Bill Crouch may be the star pitcher the Phillies always seem to have on their roster. He turned in his third fine pitching trick of the exhibition season yesterday, shutting out Cleveland with three hits in five innings.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Young Phil Rizzuto is looking very good in the New York Yankees' infield and at the plate, but he's still a problem for Red Rolfe, the veteran shortstop. Red explains he and Frank Crosetti played together seven years, and each knew just what the other would be doing to any situation, but that he can't try unorthodox plays with Rizzuto yet.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Deacon Bill McKechnie is not altogether satisfied with his Cincinnati outfield. Ival Goodman still is 15 pounds under his best playing weight and hasn't seen an inning of action; Jimmy Gleason's peg from right field looks weak; Jimmy Ripple isn't in stride, and Harry Craft, "most improved player in camp," has gone into a tail pin after a period of hard hitting.

LAKELAND, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers may give up Lakeland as a training site, but if owner Walter O. Briggs intends to do so, he's keeping silent about it. The Tigers first came her in 1934 and, since then, have made the ball park one of Florida's best.

LOS ANGELES—Dick Conger, who celebrates his 20th birthday April 3, seems close to winning a berth with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The six-foot, 185-pound youngster from Beaumont allowed only one hit in five frames against Los Angeles yesterday, although he made two wild pitches and walked three.

ANAHEIM, Cal.—Bob Kahle, purchased on option by the Philadelphia Athletics from Hollywood, came through in the pinch against his old teammates yesterday, but it probably meant more to Bob than to the club. Kahle's single with the bases full tied the score in the ninth, but Bill Brenzel's homer won the game for Hollywood.

FT. MYERS, Fla.—The Cardinal pitchers aren't getting enough work, so, after tomorrow's game with Brooklyn, Manager Billy Southworth will split his squad into two teams. One, which will include most of the regulars, will play exhibitions already booked. The other will meet minor league clubs.

Williams Boys' Idol

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 25—It was an off day, and Freddie Stack was amusing himself by feeding the rats in the Red Sox clubhouse.

The door exploded open, and in popped Ted Williams, putting too much strain on his injured ankle.

"Where you goin' tonight, Stackie?" asked the Sox slugger, and when Freddie answered "No place," Ted replied "Meet me at the hotel at 7:30, and I'll take you all to the movies."

"Greatest guy that ever lived," mused the likeable Cambridge youngster after Ted had left. "Best friend the clubhouse boys ever had," and Vince Orlando nodded assent.

"Ever tell you about the fishing trips he took us on last summer?" Freddie warmed up. "Took us out twice on off days. Cost him at least $40 a day, too. All day trip. Seven in the morning to five in the afternoon. Provides everything we want to eat, lines, hooks, bait and everything. Going to take us again this year, too.

"Johnny Orlando was with us on the first trip," Stackie smiled. "But he got seasick, and won't come any more. Spoiled the whole day for us with his moaning" he chortled, "and Ted blamed Johnny for not catching any fish.

TEDDY LANDED TUNA

"But that second day out was a dandy. Mickey McHugh, Vince (Orlando), Steve Santoro and Joe Kelly, (all Fenway aides) were with us. And to make it complete, Ted caught a 500-pound tuna down Ipswich way. Got pictures to prove it."

"That's right," Vince Orlando chimed in. "Took him 2½ hours to land him. And was he tickled? No home run ever pleased him so much."

Stackie picked up the threads again.

"I was with him one morning last summer when he received a letter from a little kid out in Faulkner Hospital.

"The kid wanted an autographed picture of Ted, and he got it that very morning.

"The second day we went out Ted brought him an autographed ball and when we made our third trip out there, Ted had a glove, a ball and a bat with him

WILLIAMS AFFECTED

"I guess the kid was pretty low," Stackie went on, "because they wouldn't let us in. And do you know, Ted just sat down and cried like a little baby. He loves kids."

He does for a fact, because every free morning here he has a bunch of tow-heads waiting around for him. He signs everything imaginable for them and then sends them scrambling for coins

"Takes me out to Chicago for a couple of days after every season closes," Stackie continues. "Treats me as if I was the Duke of Windsor. Says if he wins the batting championship this year he'll take me to Minnesota with him all winter and go hunting and fishing. He'll do it, too. Never saw anybody so free with his money, at least to us fellows."

CARDINALS AGAIN PLAGUED BY UNCERTAIN INFIELDERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals are being plagued again by the same weakness that has characterized their efforts for several years—an uncertain infield.

Manager Billy Southworth is having such difficulty at this late stage in finding the right combination that some of the club's most ardent boosters are cooling off rapidly.

Early in the training grind Southworth at least hoped his troubles had been dissolved by the simple process of planting Steve Mesner, the .341 hitting rookie from San Diego on third base and shifting Jimmie Brown over to second, with the string-bean Martin Marion, between them, at short.

It looked like a deal, even though Mesner did report somewhat overweight, and the report began to be bandied about that the Cards needed only to come up with a winning pitcher or two from their big corral of young prospects to walk right off with the National League flag. They are about due, too, not having finished on top since 1934.

PADGETT BACK TO GARDEN

In yesterday's game here against Detroit, Brown was back at his old third base post, Frank Crespi from Rochester was at second and Mesner was riding the bench. Again it was a typical patched-up St. Louis infield—the sort that does not capture pennants—so it might be as well to start concentrating on Cincinnati and Brooklyn in the annual spring guessing game.

Southworth denies he has given up on Mesner, but observers here are willing to bet that the slugging rookie does not start the season. Some are even predicting that little Eddie Lake will supplant Marion at short, as Marion has had difficulty knocking the ball out of the infield.

Otherwise, the Cards undeniably look good. Johnny Mize, finally having ended his holdout siege, is back at his familiar first base post and his 40-ounce bat gives increased authority to the club's attack. Don Padgett, who has been holding down first in Mize's absence, will be shifted to the outfield.

COOPER TO CATCH

There appears to be no place for Padgett behind the plate, even though he caught in 93 games last year. Young Walker Cooper, brought in from Columbus late last season, already has proved himself a competent receiver and will divide the work with the veteran Gus Mancuso. Gus still runs mostly in one spot, but he will prove valuable in handling the young pitchers.

It is too early to go overboard on John Grodzicki, the pitching sensation of the Cards' exhibition season. The fact that he pitched all winter down in Central America gave him a big jump on batters who were just getting the chill out of their bones, and it remains to be seen how he fares when they begin swinging those wagon tongues in earnest. Branch Rickey, however, is sure the club has a winner in Elwin Roe, brought up from Rochester.

Novikoff Gets Works From Dykes

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP)—Jimmy Dykes is just an "old meanie" for heckling Lou Novikoff, a fence-busting genius while in the minors, and the Chicago Cubs don't care who knows it.

The caustic Irish pilot of the White Sox has been giving the young and not-so-mad Russian "the business" every time the two cross-town rivals get together for an exhibition game.

"Jockey" Dykes put a saddle on the singing, harmonica-playing Cub rookie in the first game and has been riding him ever since. Nettled or not by Dykes' jibes, Novikoff nevertheless has collected a meager three hits in 16 official times at bat in four games, which is poor work, especially for Novikoff, in view of his impressive Coast league record.

PICK ON VETERANS

Jimmy Wilson, Cub pilot, isn't too elated over this needling, taking time out to give Dykes a verbal spanking thusly:

"He's all wrong about that. He shouldn't be riding these young fellows. Let him pick on me, if he wants to, or Stan Hack or Bill Herman, or some of the fellows who have been through it. You shouldn't ride a youngster when he's trying to break in."

But Dykes, who loves nothing better than a fight, has been razing opposing ball players and battling umpires ever since he started playing, and nothing Wilson says will make any appreciable difference.

LIVELY SERIES

"You'll never feel at home until the Cubs team you up with a comedian," Dykes yelled at Novikoff in the first game. "They'll have to get W. C. Fields to be your playmate."

Dykes' tactics have lifted the spring series from mere exhibition games to a bitter battle between the two teams for supremacy in pre-season competition.

After noting Dykes' methods, Wilson emphatically told his charges to "take nothing from nobody," presaging a lively series in the remaining 12 games between the big leaguers before the flag races start.

BRUMBAUGH OF BEARS MAY COACH B. C. BACKS

Boston College may have one of the youngest coaching staffs in the country before the spring practice season opens next Monday at the Heights. The staff may be even younger than the one which Frank Leahy headed before he went to Notre Dame.

Yesterday Head Coach Denny Myers, who is 35 years of age, appointed Harry Marr, a 25-year-old graduate of Notre Dame (class of '37) to coach the Eagle ends and Tom Powers, 22-year-old Boston College graduate, to handle the freshman squad.

Today there came a reliable report that one older man would join the coaching group, however.

Carl Brumbaugh, former great Chicago Bears back and also a coach at West Virginia, is said to be "in" as backfield coach for the Eagles.

GRID BRAIN TRUST

If this is so, B. C. will have a sound grid brain trust, all members familiar with the style of football Myers proposes to teach, with the attack running from the potent T.

Myers has liked this style of football for years, Marr has taught it for four years, and Brumbaugh likewise is a T enthusiast. Galligan also would fit in this T picture, and Frosh Coach Powers had plenty of chance to observe the T under Leahy in his senior year and last year as coach.

Powers, who played four years of football at Boston College and was a member of the Eagle Cotton Bowl squad, is the only holdover from the Leahy regime. Tommy, who graduated from Boston College with the class of '40, coached an undefeated freshman team last fall.

When Leahy went to Notre Dame three of his four assistants—Eddie McKeever, Johnny Druze and Joe McArdle—went with him. The fourth was Powers.

WALTHAM BOY

With Edward P. "Ted" Galligan, former Boston College grid star and coach under both Dobie and Leahy, slated to return as line coach, Boston College—if Galligan gets the appointment—will come up with a third "youngster." Galligan, who coached football and basketball at Mt. St. Charles in Woonsocket, R. I., during the recent seasons, is 26 years of age.

Head Coach Myers expects to appoint two more coaches within the next 24 hours. One will be a "high class backfield man"—those are Denny's own words. The Brumbaugh report would fit in with this statement. The other will probably be Gallagher—definitely a high class line coach.

Young Mr. Marr, who was born and brought up in Waltham and attended Waltham's St. Mary's High School far a year before matriculating to B. C. High School from which he graduated in 1933, looked like the "goods" at his first press conference.

Harry, a handsome young married man and proud father of one child, coached at the University of Wichita (Kansas) during the past four years. Marr was varsity end, track star and light heavyweight boxing champion at Notre Dame from which he graduated in 1937.

RATED GOOD SCOUT

He comes to Boston College with only the highest of recommendations from all with whom he associated in Waltham, at B. C. High, at Notre Dame and at the University of Wichita.

The new Eagle coach was head track coach, football end coach and professor of men's physical education at Wichita. At the Kansas school Marr was assistant to Al Gebert, one time Notre Dame great, who played under the immortal Knute Rockne.

Besides proving himself in athletics Marr maintained an ultra creditable record in his studies at St. Mary's, at Boston College High and at Notre Dame. He graduated magna cum laude from Notre Dame.

Marr, besides coaching the ends in Myers' offensive schemes, will attend to th scouting duties for Boston College. Harry's scouting ability while at Wichita was one of the major reasons for the success which that small college attained during his four years of service.

Harry is "tickled pink to be back in Boston—or Waltham to be exact." Said the new Eagle wing coach when he arrived at the Heights, "This is a real break for me. I'm happy to be associated with a football power like Boston College and I'm very happy to be back among my old friends after an absence of four years."

B. C. High Alumni Holds Sports Night

The Boston College High Alumni Association will hold an athletic night and smoker at the school gymnasium on James st. tonight.

The list of speakers will include Jim Moran, B. C. High coach, Jack Conway, sports editor of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser, and Gerry Hern, Boston sports writer.

FAN-SHAPED BACKBOARD STIRS ROW

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—The new fan-shaped basketball backboard which appeared on some courts this season seems to be good for an argument wherever coaches gather.

That's the only subject that produced any real differences of opinion yesterday when the National Ass'n of Basketball Coaches opened its two-day convention.

Nat Holman of the College of the City of New York said he wouldn't permit his teams to play rivals that use it next year.

Jack Gardner, Kansas State coach, said the fan-shaped board hasn't proved satisfactory in its trial in the Big Six Conference this season.

The outcome of yesterday's argument was that the rules committee suggested that the backboard be six feet by four feet, with no options as to its shape, but that didn't mean all the coaches were convinced.

The rules proposals will come up for a vote of the convention today and, if approved, will be presented to the national rules committee at Kansas City next week.

Other recommendations concerned standardization of euipment. Sam Barry of Southern California summed up the general idea when he said a survey he had made showed the coaches were more interested in uniformity than in the kind of equipment used.

Out of the Night

A good sleep was all that Walter and William Hartliner, 7 and 12, needed to bring them up to par today . . . after they had been missing for 20 hours, during which time their parents and neighbors searched frantically throughout Roxbury for them.
